Consultant Liaisons
Spring 2018 Pilot Program

1. What is a Consultant Liaison (CL)?
Consultant Liaisons (CLs) are writing consultants assigned 5-hours to a course that incorporates writing. CLs work closely with instructors to understand the goals and expectations of writing assignments & then brings that knowledge back to the UWC staff.

2. What do CLs do?
CLs create course-specific writing materials to support writers’ development. Whereas writing mentors work individually with writers in a WI course, CLs work to (1) open the lines of communication between the UWC and the course, and (2) create writing materials that’ll support writers.

3. What courses are eligible for a CL?
Courses need not be WI, but they should incorporate writing assignments. Courses should incorporate or encourage writers to use the University Writing Center.

Instructor Requirements

- Meet at least once with the CL to share your writing assignments, grading criteria, and course goals pertaining to writing.
- Maintain email communication with the Consultant Liaison.
- Incorporate the University Writing Center in the course in some way.
