Lee Workman reported a 3.1 overall GPA for ECU Athletics, which is the highest ever and represents 14 teams above a 3.0. Additionally, he informed the board that the Women’s Golf team had an overall GPA of 3.8 which is 4th in the country.

Lee reported that we hosted the 2018 baseball regionals (first time since 2009) and regional baseball ticket sales resulted in 180 new Pirate Club members. He also detailed the ongoing efforts that Athletics and the Pirate Club are making to re-engage lost/lapsed Pirate Club members which had an impact on the reduced ticket sales over the last few years.
Football ticket sales are down 3K from last year and Pirate Club dollars are down $1M. However, the Pirate Club is up $400K from this time last year and efforts since mid-May to present show things are improving. Phillip Wood reminded the board that recent legislation has not helped with donations. Additionally, Phillip reported that the PC has an endowment of $17M and many of those donors do not make an annual gift. Pirate Club staff are going to make efforts to talk with those donors to seek annual gifts.

Phillip Wood informed the board that a sub-committee of the Pirate Club Executive board will convene to discuss and evaluate the priority point system and reseating.

Dave Hart shared that he continues to meet with staff and student leaders in Athletics and is working closely with Stephanie Coleman who is helping with the current financial situation. He feels very positive about the future of ECU Athletics.

3. RESEARCH STATEMENT

Shannon Wallet’s research interests are focused on mechanisms associated with altered innate immune functions, which lead to dysregulated adaptive immunity. Through her independent and collaborative research programs, she has been involved, at some level, in investigating the basic biology of health, multiple autoimmune conditions, autoinflammation, sepsis, exercise induced inflammation, and, most recently, cancer. A major focus for Wallet is understanding intestinal immune regulation under conditions of health versus disease, in the context of type 1 diabetes. Investigations into these interactions have been hindered by a lack of robust primary cell culture techniques, which the Wallet laboratory has most recently been able to overcome. Wallet also studies altered immunological mechanisms which lead to tissue destruction in the context of periodontal disease. Here, through funding from the NIDCR and American Diabetes Association (ADA), Wallet has demonstrated that oral epithelial cells play a central role in regulating oral inflammation and its resolution. In addition, she has begun to decipher osteoclast specific mechanisms associated with excessive bone destruction observed in periodontal disease of individuals with type 1 diabetes. Wallet also investigates the subversion of immunity involved in pancreatic cancer. Through funding from the UF-sponsored Team Science Project (UF TSP) and American Cancer Society Career Development Awards (ACS CDA), Wallet has generated data allowing her to develop personalized targeting nanomedicines as well as to decipher the mechanisms associated with pancreatic cancer specific suppression of the innate immune system, allowing for the progression of disease and metastases. Dr. Wallet is keen to utilize her expertise to bring together multiple research communities with the goal of advancing human health.
Research Statement

As outlined in my CV, my research interests are focused on mechanisms associated with altered innate immune functions, which lead to dysregulated adaptive immunity. Currently my research program has three major arms integrated through with a central philosophy. Specifically, our laboratory focuses on the contribution of epithelial cell biology and signaling to innate and adaptive immune homeostasis and dysfunction. We study the contribution of what I term ‘epithelial cell innate immune (dys)function’ to three major disease conditions: pancreatic cancer, type 1 diabetes (autoimmunity), and periodontal disease (autoinflammation). While appearing to be a diverse research program, we have found that many of the mechanisms and systems in play are surprisingly (or maybe not so surprisingly) similar allowing for rapid translation of our findings. Importantly, previous investigations into the role of epithelial cells in immunobiology have been hindered by a lack of robust primary cell culture techniques, which our laboratory has been able to overcome using both animal and human tissues. Thus, using our novel and unique tools we are able to evaluate our findings in the human conditions, again making translation of our findings that much more feasible. Below are brief yet more detailed descriptions of each arm of my research program:

1. Periodontal Disease (PD), subgingival bacteria initiate and sustain a non-resolving inflammation that is ineffective at controlling the infection. In addition, PD-associated inflammation is multifactorial in nature, whereby immune plasticity in both the innate and adaptive immune compartments have been observed. Immune plasticity during infection may impart deleterious outcomes during PD, as a consequence of chronic inflammation; however, the cues that drive this plasticity, and what the precise impact this plasticity has on proper immune cell activation and function during PD is at best poorly understood. Our preliminary findings suggest that oral epithelial cells (OECs) serve as a source of inflammatory cues capable of regulating the not only oral bone loss in response to poly-microbial infection, but plasticity of both innate and adaptive immune cells. In addition, we recently reported that the macrophage immune response to PD-associated bacteria challenge is directly influenced by its prior activation by inflammatory stimuli (i.e. polarization). Further, poorly orchestrated T cell activation is appreciated as a key facet of PD. With this information, we propose that activation of the oral epithelium drives an inflammatory milieu, which directly and indirectly shapes innate and adaptive immune plasticity in PD. Thus our laboratory uses integrated approaches to elucidate the mechanistic features of OEC-elicited immune signaling on macrophage plasticity and functional handling of PD-associated pathogens. In addition, the outcomes of direct and indirect mechanisms of OEC tuning of the T cell compartment are evaluated. Lastly, macrophage-T cell crosstalk under PD pathogen-elicited inflammatory and immunoregulatory environments are investigated. We implement a combinatorial approach employing in vitro and in vivo experimentation to detail the cellular interactions at key checkpoints in host response to infection. The results from these studies will set the foundation for the contribution of immune plasticity and its role in shaping the immunologic response guiding PD, providing critical insight for future studies targeting therapeutic intervention approaches for PD based on immunologic tuning of the host response to PD-associated pathogens.

2. Type 1 Diabetes (T1D) is an autoimmune disease with both genetic and environmental contributions, yet a single environmental factor has yet to be identified. We propose that rather than the specific identity of the environmental factor, the way in which an environmental signal is received is most important to disease. Among individuals at risk of developing T1D, seroconversion to islet autoantibody (IA) production is the best and earliest biological predictor of disease progression. Thus, critical events leading to the destructive β cell autoimmunity associated with T1D are linked to the development of IAs. In subjects with high risk HLA alleles, 9 gene regions marked by single nucleotide polymorphisms (SNPs) are associated with IA seroconversion. Our collaborator's analysis of these IA risk loci reveals enrichment for genes/proteins that regulate only three cell signaling pathways (RAS/MAPK, PI3K/AKT and JAK/STAT), whereby four IA seroconversion risk variants (PTPN22, SH2B3, ERBB3 and UBASH3A) each impact all three. Thus, we propose that regulation of environmental sensing is at least in part controlled by the one or more of these risk variants associated with the development of IAs. Appropriate communication of the gastrointestinal tract (GI) with the environment is required for local and systemic immunologic homeostasis, which is in part regulated by the intestinal epithelial cell (IEC) through their physical and biochemical interactions with innate and adaptive immune populations. To this end, contribution of immunity within the GI tract to the expression of autoimmunity at distal sites has been previously demonstrated. Thus we propose that the seroconversion risk variants affect immune signaling pathways within the IEC.
contributing to the maintenance of autoimmunity in T1D, through the secondary expansion and/or polarization of autoreactive effector T-cells. To study human disease, a major need is cell-specific human isogenic systems that can be used to dissect the role of individual T1D risk gene variant alleles. Our preliminary studies support use of a disease-in-a-dish strategy that pairs human induced pluripotent stem cells (iPSCs) with CRISPR/Cas9 gene modification to fulfill these needs. Thus our laboratory couples iPSCs and CRISPR/Cas9 technology with our method of reproducible primary human IECs culture to achieve haploinsufficient, mono-allelic homozygosity at risk or protective alleles to evaluate alterations in IEC-immune mechanisms which contribute to the maintenance of βcell autoimmunity.

3. Pancreatic cancer (PC) will be the second leading cause of cancer-associated deaths by 2020. PC is resistant to conventional chemoradiation regimens and clinical trials evaluating new agents continue to demonstrate unacceptably high rates of failure. As promising alternatives, therapies designed to stimulate antitumor immune responses have achieved unprecedented success with other solid tumors. Vaccination, one immunotherapeutic modality applied to PC, has unfortunately achieved a limited degree of success. Similarly, immune checkpoint inhibition has also achieved promising results in solid tumors, but again clinical outcomes following checkpoint inhibition alone in PC have been disappointing. Thus, it has been proposed that immune modulation may not be a viable option in PC, where it has been hypothesized that in cancers with a limited array of somatic mutations, such as PC, development of fewer neoantigens prevent the development of a vast enough repertoire of tumor-specific T cells to be effective in mounting antitumor responses. Yet others have demonstrated that patients with gastrointestinal tumors, including PC, do actually harbor neoantigen-reactive T cells. Most importantly, expansion of these neoantigen-reactive T cells ex vivo and subsequent adoptive cell therapy (ACT) resulted in stable regression of a metastatic cholangiocarcinoma, previously resistant to multiple chemotherapy regimens. Comparable clinical responses in PC would revolutionize the current treatment paradigm, significantly expanding the population of patients eligible for potentially curative therapy. We are keenly aware, that expansion of PC-reactive T cells ex vivo and subsequent ACT will not be sufficient to treat PC due to a tumor micro-environment of tolerance. Indeed, we recently published, that while cancer cells exert mastery over the local tumor-associated stroma (TAS) to configure escape from immunity, the TAS also contributes to the production of an immunosuppressive tumor microenvironment. As outlined in our recent review, we propose that these combined effects at least in part contribute to the observed failure of vaccine-mediated in vivo expansion of tumor-specific T cells, as well as mono-modal checkpoint inhibitor therapies. We hypothesize that ACT will need to be coupled with appropriate checkpoint inhibition and/or vaccination to be effective in the treatment of PC, by providing both a robust population of highly functional and tumor-specific T cells as well as inhibition/reversion of T cell tolerance/ exhaustion in the tumor microenvironment. Thus, our program is currently evaluating the frequency, phenotype and function of ex vivo expanded PC-reactive T cells, using platforms that can be used in a heterogeneous patient population as well as in a more personalized manner. In addition, we will utilize and expand upon the existing knowledge on the PC-tumor microenvironment of tolerance to inform the selection of appropriate checkpoint inhibitors to be evaluated as adjunctive mono- and multi-modal therapies to ACT. Most importantly, we will translate ACT and the appropriate adjunctive multi-modal checkpoint inhibitor therapies into clinical trial. We have assembled an interdisciplinary team each with unique expertise to reach the overarching goal of our research program - to develop effective and translational immunotherapy for PC. We are making strides towards this goal utilizing models and tools currently in our laboratories to do so in the human condition.

In addition to my primary research objectives, my collaborative research programs, have allowed me to be involved, at some level, in investigating the basic biology of health, multiple autoimmune conditions, autoinflammation, sepsis, and exercise induced inflammation that have resulted in 76 total publications to date. http://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/sites/entrez?cmd=search&term=Shannon+Wallet&mode=cond&list_uids=41322655. I have been blessed with the opportunities to couple my passions and expertise with that of others to bring together multiple research communities with the goal of advancing human health and hope to be able to continue to do so for years to come.
Teaching Philosophy

Since at the University of Florida, I have had the privilege to teach several types of students including pre-doctoral (DMD) and post-doctoral (MS) dental students as well as PhD students. I have contributed to the teaching missions of the University and College primarily through teaching didactic courses in the DMD, advanced education and PhD curricula. The format of these courses range from small-group learning (Introduction to Oral Biology; Advanced Periodontology) to passive learning (i.e. lecture) (e.g. Host Defense, Principles of Immunology) to flipped classroom learning (e.g. Discussion of Research Topics, Immunology/Microbiology Grant Writing). In my experience, each teaching methodology has a place within the education system to impart the knowledge and skill sets needed for learners to progress. For instance, in Host Defense, there is a level of information that needs to be provided prior to asking students to utilize this information in critical thinking exercises, thus passive learning is the most appropriate way to convey this information. Conversely, in Oral Biology I and II it is understood that this fundamental knowledge has been gained and thus we ask students to utilize this information during critical thinking exercises using small-groups. Finally, in our Grant Writing course a flipped classroom works best whereby students utilize both their foundation of knowledge and critical thinking skills to evaluate their own writing and that of others. One final aspect of my teaching philosophy is that which addresses the heterogeneity of learning styles identified in today’s learners. Simply, there is not one teaching method that will satisfy all learning styles or all learners, but it is the responsibility of educators to recognize and respect that there are multiple types of learners. For instance, at UF, our didactic courses (mostly passive learning) are recorded and it is up to the course director as to whether attendance in class is required. Early into the directorship of this course, I performed an analysis of the performance of students who attended class versus those who watched the recorded lectures and quickly discovered that over a two-year period there was no difference in the performance within the course between these two groups of students. In addition, in course debriefings both sets of students expressed that the lack of pressure for attendance to the class allowed 1) those students who did attend to be less distracted by those who do not wish to be there and 2) those students who prefer to absorb the information on their own time and/or environment to do so more effectively. Importantly, in both of these years, I clearly delineated the responsibilities of myself and the other instructors within the courses, along with the expectations we had of the students. I attribute this transparent communication to the success of this particular course.

*I have provided student teaching evaluations for 2016 – 2017 teaching assignment. Multiple years are available upon request.
I have also served the teaching mission of UFCD by advising and mentoring future scientists at all levels. Again, I have had the opportunity to mentor several types of students through their research experiences. Each type of student requires a different mentoring style and/or philosophy. For instance, I have mentored several undergraduates whose goals are to gain entrance into Dental/Medical/Graduate School. My philosophy on undergraduate research training is that these students should be trained and mentored such that they develop a set of skills that could carry them further in their endeavors. Therefore, my undergraduate students do not simply ‘wash dishes’, but carry out small yet important research projects which requires them to read the literature, design experiments, learn techniques, interpret experimental outcomes, and troubleshoot their experiments. While data analysis and interpretation is a joint effort between the undergraduate trainee, and me I still feel it is an important process for which they gain experience. Our undergraduates have been very successful in reaching their goals (see CV or details) and while not all have continued to participate in research, I strongly feel their experiences in my laboratory have prepared them well. As the director for the Research Elective (DEN8960) at UFCD, I also coordinate DMD student research. Here we have several levels of commitment to research which range from simple curiosity to incorporation of research into their career goals. Therefore, it is my responsibility to match students’ needs and capabilities to that of mentors to better ensure success in the research endeavor. Obviously, the experiences these students have been and should be very different. In addition, I am an active participant in the UFCD DMD Summer Research Program since 2007 where I have personally mentored six students during their summer research experience whereby two participants, have graduated with High Research Honors in 2011 and 2014 respectively.

In addition, I have been the chair and member of several Masters of Science (MS) graduate committees through the COM basic science departments, as well as the COD clinical departments. In addition to my participation on MS committees, I have in the past filled the role of the Periodontology Graduate Research Coordinator where I was responsible for overseeing the initiation, progression and completion of the MS thesis research projects of our Periodontology Residents (7-9/year). Here my philosophy has been that students should demonstrate an ability to read the literature, know the deficiencies in their area of research, be able to design a research plan to answer the question(s) left by these deficiencies, execute the plan, troubleshoot any problems which arise and analyze and interpret the data. Importantly, work done in these experiences should result in a manuscript worthy of publication. Again, our MS students have been successful in project planning and execution (see CV for details).

Finally, I have a strong track record of mentoring pre-doctoral fellows in pursuit of their PhD. Specifically, I have successfully graduated three pre-doctoral fellow (Dana Catalfamo (August 2012), Christina Graves (January 2016), and Dan Delitto (April 2016)), two COM MS students (Jeff Tobler (2009) and Michael Nelson (2013)). I currently mentor one pre-doctoral fellows (Bayli DiVita (second year)), while concurrently serving on over 15 PhD committees (see CV for details). All of my pre-doctoral fellows have been or are currently supported by institutional training grants held by UFCD or COM, where the expectation is that all of my graduate students will apply for individual pre-doctoral awards in their second and/or third year of training. Two of my PhD graduates were successful in obtaining two years of F31 funding from the NIDCR and the NIDDK.

Thus in summary, I have effectively supported the teaching missions of UFCD and UFCOM on multiple levels. This is highlighted by the fact I received the Basic and Behavioral Sciences Teacher of the Year Award for the COD in 2015 and the Faculty Doctoral Mentoring Award for the COM in 2017 (see CV for details).

7. TEACHING, ADVISING, AND INSTRUCTIONAL ACCOMPLISHMENTS
While research is the driving force in my career, I feel it imperative to support the institution which provides me the ability to conduct my research. Thus, time not conducting research is divided among teaching and mentoring of undergraduate/graduate/professional students. Although my teaching duties include the director of Host Defense (DEN6128), as well as multiple immunology related lectures in the College of Dentistry (COD) as well as the College of Medicine (COM), the majority of time not doing research is dedicated to mentoring future scientists at all levels.

While at the University of Florida, I have been privileged to mentor several types of students through their research experiences. Each type of student requires a different mentoring style and/or philosophy. For instance, I have mentored several undergraduates whose goals are to gain entrance into Dental/ Medical /Graduate School. in research, I strongly feel their experiences in my laboratory have prepared them well.

As the director for the Research Elective (DEN8960) in the COD, I currently coordinate DMD student research performed at UFCD. Here we have several levels of commitment to research which range from simple curiosity to incorporation of research into their career goals. Therefore, it is my responsibility to match students' needs and capabilities to that of mentors to better ensure success in the research endeavor. Obviously, the experiences these students have should be and are very different. We started this program in 2009 and have placed a few students with mentors. The success of these endeavors won't be evident for a couple of more years, although I am still very excited about this model of incorporating research into the DMD education process. In addition, I have been an active participant in the COD DMD Summer Research Program since 2007 where I have personally mentored six students during their summer research experience whereby two participants, Jessica Wiedey and Ann Decker have graduated with High Research Honors in 2011 and 2014 respectively.

Mentorship of graduate students goes hand in hand with a successful research program. To this end, I have successfully graduated three pre-doctoral fellow (Dana Catalfamo (August 2012), Christina Graves (January 2016), and Dan Delitto (April 2016)), two COM MS students (Jeff Tobler (2009) and Michael Nelson (2013)) and currently mentor two pre-doctoral fellows (Gavin Golas (second year), Bayli DiVita (first year), while currently serving on multiple PhD committees. All of my pre-doctoral fellows have been or currently are supported by institutional training grants held by COD (Dana Catalfamo T32 (Burne), Christina Graves T90 (Burne), Gavin Golas T90 (Burne) or COM Dan Delitto (T32 Behrns)), where the expectation is that all graduate students will apply for individual pre-doctoral awards in their second and/or third year of training. My PhD graduates Dana and Christina were successful in obtaining two years of F31 funding from the NIDCR and the NIDDK (with a perfect score of 10) respectively. In addition I have been the chair and member of several Masters of Science (MS) graduate committees through the COM basic science departments, as well as the COD and clinical departments. In addition to my participation on MS committees, I have in the past filled the role of the Periodontology Graduate Research Coordinator where I was responsible for overseeing the initiation, progression and completion of the MS thesis research projects of our Periodontology Residents (7-9/year). Here my philosophy has been that students in both colleges should be held to the same standards. This includes an eventual ability to read the literature, know the deficiencies in their area of research, be able to design a research plan to answer the question(s) left by these deficiencies, execute the plan, troubleshoot any problems which arise and analyze and interpret the data. Importantly, work done in these experiences should result in a manuscript worthy of publication. Again, our MS students have been successful in project planning and execution.

To: East Carolina University Board of Trustees
From: Phyllis N. Horns, PhD, RN, FAAN
Vice Chancellor, Division of Health Sciences
Date: June 29, 2018
Re: Incentive Payment for Dr. Everett Pesci

The Division of Health Sciences is submitting for your consideration and approval a one-time incentive payment for Dr. Everett (Eb) Pesci, Chair, Department of Microbiology and Immunology, Brody School of Medicine. This one-time payment in the amount of $25,000 is requested in consideration of the following factors:

- The American Association of Medical Schools and Colleges (AAMC) 2016-2017 Salary Survey indicates the 25th percentile annual salary for a Chair of Microbiology as $233,000.

- Dr. Pesci’s current annual (12-month) salary rate is $215,000.

- The original request was for an annual (12-month) salary rate of $240,000; however, the UNC System Office approved an annual (12-month) salary rate of only $215,000. Dr. Pesci graciously accepted the chair position at this reduced salary rate and has performed exceptionally.

- Dr. Pesci is a career ECU employee with extensive research contributions including grant awards in excess of $7 million dollars, 42 publications, 41 abstracts, 29 presentations and numerous textbook contributions.

- In addition, the Department Chairs in the related Basic Sciences disciplines in the Brody School of Medicine have the following base salaries:

  1. $233,938
  2. $228,530
  3. $252,536

In summary, we are requesting this one-time payment in recognition that Dr. Pesci has served as the Chair of the Department of Microbiology since August 1, 2017 at a salary that is below that of his peers and below the AAMC 25th percentile.
University Affairs Committee - East Carolina University Board of Trustees

Academic Affairs – Ron Mitchelson

- Part VIII – Faculty Manual Revision
  - Dr. Mitchelson explained that this relates to personnel policies and procedures related to faculty at most every phase of employment. The goal is align this with the tenure statements in Part IX of the Faculty Manual and to avoid unnecessary redundancy. The major changes were outlined in Board materials, but some highlighted included a clear expectation of engagement for all probationary faculty and tenured faculty; the responsibility of faculty in the life of the unit; and the alignment in Part VIII with the salary language.
  - MOTION – made by Jordan Koonts and seconded. Approved without dissent.

- Enrollment Management Task Force (EMTF) Update – Mitchelson with Chris Locklear
  - Chris walked through the timeline for the Enrollment Management Task Force. He shared this this Task Force is picking up from the 2014-15 Task Force efforts. The plan from that EMTF projected ECU to be at 30,000 by Fall 2019. The new charge for the EMTF has five and ten year enrollment forecasts, targets and strategies. The target for recommendations and a report to the Chancellor is set for mid-Spring 2019. Chris added the ECU has partnered again with Ruffalo Noel Levitz to assist with our planning efforts. There are six working groups that are gathering data and information to feed the larger EMTF for better planning and structure toward a full report.
  - Provost Mitchelson shared that NC growth of enrollment is expected to flatten over the coming years. The growth from 2011-2016 shows 44% of the growth in NC is related to Wake and Mecklenburg county. And the largest growing counties in NC are not in rural communities, which goes against or commitment to grow enrollment in rural communities. He added if we stay the same with what we are doing today, we will see a decline in enrollment beyond 2025. We have to operate differently, which is why we have gone to using a Common Application, using AdmitHub (an AI platform that answers questions for incoming students) and RaiseMe (a micro-scholarship program to incentivize and financially reward high school students for their course work). We have also signed a partnership with 16 community colleges for Co-Admittance, which will help us build pathways and avenues for new students to come to ECU.

Research, Economic Development and Engagement (REDE) – Jay Golden

- Jay shared some divisional reorganization. Ted Morris will be leading the development with the Millennial Campus. We expect to see a growth of business partnerships and future jobs that ECU will be a large part of creating.
- New Ventures and Innovation – New director, who is starting at ECU soon, will lead the Micro-Business community. These are cohorts of students (about 60 in the first cohort) to develop micro-businesses with hopes that the students can start their own businesses in our area after they graduate. Students will be able to come to ECU, graduate and be better prepared to start and operate businesses in eastern North Carolina.
Summary of Approved Revisions to

ECU Faculty Manual, Part VIII, Section I.
Personnel Policies and Procedures for the Faculty of East Carolina University

Background:

After implementation in 2017 of the institution’s revised tenure regulations contained in the ECU Faculty Manual, Part IX, it was necessary to update additional policies and procedures that coordinate with the tenure regulations. Faculty leaders and academic administrators collaborated to revise these documents, forums were held across campus to gather important feedback, comments and suggestions were considered, and appropriate revisions were incorporated. The final document, ECU Faculty Manual, Part VIII, Section I, complies with UNC policies and is consistent with relevant ECU policies and regulations.

Key Elements of Change from Existing Policy:

1) In the subsection related to determination of faculty positions, statements were included to clearly articulate that faculty should be involved in recommending the academic unit’s needs to the administrative authorities.

2) In the general criteria for selection and appointment of faculty, the following statement was added: “ECU is committed to recruiting, retaining, and developing faculty members that are highly accomplished in teaching and scholarship, including research and creative activities. Accordingly, research and creative activities that align with the institution’s mission, engage students in effective ways, and advance our academic disciplines are an expectation of all tenured and probationary term (tenure track) faculty.”

3) Consistent with the revised tenure regulations, the academic rank of Instructor was deleted for probationary term faculty appointments.

4) Titles for Fixed-term faculty appointments were expanded to reflect changes in the tenure eligibility status of faculty in the two academic libraries. In addition, the title of Senior Teaching Instructor was added to recognize exceptional long-term contributions of fixed-term faculty to the institution’s academic programs.

5) Subsections related to Fixed-term appointments, which formerly duplicated information contained in Part IX, were revised to instead refer to Part IX.

6) Throughout the various sections related to faculty responsibilities, references are made to expect that faculty actively participate in the life of their unit, be physically present on campus to the extent necessary to effectively discharge their duties according to disciplinary norms, and to carry their fair load of assigned and assumed duties necessary for the effective and equitable operation of the unit.
7) Various references to salary increments and to benefits for faculty employees more clearly refer to required compliance with current State of North Carolina and University of North Carolina salary regulations.

8) The provisions regarding information contained in the institution's faculty personnel related files, including definition, location, content, access, and protection of confidential information, was updated to comply with current North Carolina General Statutes. Institutional procedures for maintaining these various records were simplified, to include removing individual personnel file checklists and replacing them with a comprehensive list of locations where related files may be found. The comprehensive list will be updated as necessary and is located on Division websites (Academic Affairs and Health Sciences, respectively) that is accessible to faculty members.

I. Selection and Appointment of New Faculty
   A. Determination of Number and Nature of Positions

   Since faculty members of each academic unit are responsible for the curriculum, they shall make recommendations on the personnel needs of the unit.

   Acting in accord with the policies and procedures set forth in the Unit Code, the unit administrator shall recommend, with input from the faculty, to the next higher administrator (for conveyance to the Academic Council) the number and nature of faculty positions needed to carry out the unit’s mission and achieve the university, division, college and unit planning goals. Such recommendations shall contain justifications addressing the unit staffing plan and appropriate planning goals of the university, division, college, and unit.
Allocation of faculty positions is the prerogative of the Academic Council. The deans and directors shall determine the distribution of positions within their college and schools in accordance with strategic priorities.

In general, tenured and probationary term (tenure-track) positions are preferred unless sound reasons exist. Such reasons include, but are not limited to; (a) the position is not permanently assigned to the unit, (b) the position is addressing temporary needs, (c) the position cannot be filled by a faculty member with a terminal degree, (d) the duties of the position are primarily clinical, (e) the position is by its nature term-limited (term-limited endowed professorships, for example), (f) this reflects the preference of the faculty member taking the position, or (g) budgetary or strategic considerations.

B. Selection Procedure
The selection of candidates must be conducted in accordance with the University’s “Recruitment, Guidelines and Resources” policies, Part IX, Section I. Tenure and Promotion Policies and Procedures, and applicable unit code provisions.

C. General Criteria
ECU is committed to recruiting, retaining, and developing faculty members that are highly accomplished in teaching and scholarship, including research and creative activities. Accordingly, research and creative activities that align with the institution's mission, engage students in effective ways, and advance our academic disciplines are an expectation of all tenured and probationary (tenure-track) faculty members.

1. Tenured or Probationary-Term Positions
A candidate who is under consideration for a tenured or probationary-term position is evaluated on past achievements and potential for future contributions in teaching, scholarship, service, and, if applicable, contributions to patient care and related clinical responsibilities as described below:

East Carolina University recognizes the primary importance of teaching. East Carolina University expects each member of the faculty to have knowledge of subject matter commensurate with one's teaching assignment, to maintain awareness of developments in one's discipline, and to communicate to students one's knowledge of and interest in the discipline. The faculty member will encourage students in responsible and careful inquiry, in appreciation of the interrelation of various disciplines, and in recognition of the uses of learning and the value of the educated mind. Teaching includes instructional activities and responsibilities beyond the classroom setting, e.g., advisement; mentoring; laboratory supervision; clinical rounds by a physician/professor accompanied by students; program direction; the direction of research projects and papers, dissertations, and theses; and other contacts and relationships outside the classroom.

b. Scholarship (Research, Creative Activity/Innovation, Engagement, and/or Outreach)
Scholarship refers to the scholarship of research, the scholarship of creative activity/innovation, and the scholarship of engagement and/or outreach.

Faculty members’ on-campus presence is expected to the extent necessary in the performance of these responsibilities.

   Visiting Instructor; Visiting Assistant Professor; Visiting Associate Professor; Visiting Professor. The prefix “visiting” before an academic title is used to designate a short-term full-time or part-time appointment without tenure. Therefore, the visiting title shall not be used for periods of time beyond the initial contract period. It shall be used only for those fixed-term faculty members who are visitors, temporary replacements, or for whose disciplines the institution in good faith expects to have only a short-term need. Use of the visiting title for an individual for more than 3 years is a misuse of this title.

4. Emeritus status
   All unit codes must specify criteria for conferring of “emeritus” or “emerita” status. Based on those criteria specified in the unit code and the recommendations of the unit personnel committee and appropriate administrators, the Chancellor may confer the title emeritus or emerita upon a retired (including Phased Retirement participant), permanently disabled, or deceased faculty member, who has made a significant contribution to the university through a long and distinguished record of scholarship, teaching, and/or service (FS Resolution #13-97, December 2013).

E. Initial Appointment
   [For additional provisions related to initial faculty appointments, see ECU Faculty Manual, Part IX, Section I (II).]
Appointment to the faculty is made by the Chancellor or the Chancellor’s designee. Upon receiving recommendations by appropriate unit committees and administrators, the Chancellor or his/her designee shall issue an appointment letter to the faculty candidate. No offer is binding and no appointment is effective until signed by the Chancellor or the Chancellor’s designee and subsequently signed by the faculty appointee.

The appointment letter shall specify, at minimum: rank or title; salary rate; length of appointment; tenure status [either fixed-term, probationary-term, or appointment with permanent tenure, as defined in the Faculty Manual, Part IX]; initial assignments and/or responsibilities; reference to the criteria for evaluation of faculty performance, as provided in Part IX, unit codes, and other appropriate documents; and any specific terms and conditions of employment.

Any action conferring permanent tenure with the initial faculty appointment requires approval of the Board of Trustees.

II. Assignments of Faculty Workload

Faculty workload is governed by the Faculty Workload Administrative Regulation.

By the end of the spring semester for 9-month faculty, and by the end of the summer session for 12-month faculty, and prior to making final faculty workload assignments and after soliciting faculty preferences, the unit administrator shall apprise each unit faculty member, in writing, of the duties and responsibilities for the coming academic year.

A. Teaching Responsibilities

The unit administrator assigns teaching responsibilities and determines the method of delivery. If changes in a faculty member's assignment subsequently become necessary, the faculty member shall be notified at the earliest possible opportunity.

The definition of a semester credit hour is governed by PRR #02.07.01.

Full-time faculty members whose primary responsibilities are teaching and other instructional responsibilities should not be required to teach more than the equivalent of 12 credit hours per semester or 6 credit hours per summer session, as consistent with the discipline norms, with the exception of faculty members who voluntarily teach directed readings and similar courses. If exceptional circumstances require that a faculty member be assigned more than the equivalent of 12 credit hours in a semester, he or she should be appropriately compensated for the excess teaching load during that term or be given the equivalent reduced teaching load at a time to be negotiated between the unit administrator and the faculty member.

Consistent with Part VI, Section I.II., faculty members teaching one or more courses must maintain five hours of office hours during the workweek. Faculty members are also expected to be on campus an appropriate number of hours consistent with assigned instructional duties and disciplinary norms.

B. Scholarly Responsibilities

A faculty member's scholarship shall reflect the high professional standards incumbent upon those who enjoy full academic freedom; such activities must be measured by standards of quality, not merely by quantity, as appropriate to the discipline. Faculty members shall fulfill their scholarly responsibilities as outlined in the unit code and consistent with overall assigned duties.

C. Service Responsibilities

Each faculty member will be assigned and/or will assume responsibilities to serve diverse service roles in the department/program, the college, the university, profession and/or the community in consultation with their unit administrator. These roles may include formal service in committees at various levels or informal activities, such as mentoring students or junior faculty members. Consequently, as appropriate in each unit, faculty members are expected to actively participate in the life of their unit, be physically present on campus to the extent necessary to discharge their particular service duties, and to carry their fair load of assigned and assumed duties necessary for the effective and equitable operation of the unit.

D. Patient Care and Related Clinical Responsibilities, as appropriate

Standards are described in the unit code.

Faculty reassigned time is governed by Faculty Scholarly Reassignment Administrative Regulation. Faculty members who are to be granted reassigned time shall be informed in writing of the purpose of the reassignment. (FS Resolution #14-04, March 2014)

III. Annual Evaluation

Each faculty member with either a fixed term, probationary term, or permanently tenured appointment shall perform his/her duties according to ECU’s Statement on Professional Ethics and shall receive annually an evaluation of his/her performance from the unit administrator which shall be based upon current academic year data. The annual performance evaluation of faculty members shall employ the criteria contained in the unit code approved by the chancellor.

The process for determining the relative weight given to teaching, scholarship, service, and where appropriate, clinical duties, for purposes of annual evaluations shall be contained in the unit code. In no case, however, shall service be weighed more heavily than either teaching or scholarship.

This annual evaluation shall:

- be in writing;
- be discussed with the faculty member prior to being sent to any other administrator or placed in the faculty member's personnel file; in the case of faculty members with probationary term appointments, a record of this discussion shall be placed in the faculty member's personnel file;
- be signed and dated by the unit administrator and the faculty member, who may attach to the evaluation a concise comment regarding the evaluation. The faculty member has seven working days after receiving the evaluation to attach the statement. The signature of the faculty member signifies that he or she has read the evaluation, but it does not necessarily indicate concurrence.

The unit administrator shall forward to each faculty member a copy of that member’s annual evaluation within ten calendar days of completing the evaluations of unit members.

A. Probationary-term and permanently tenured faculty

The evaluation of probationary-term and permanently-tenured faculty members shall be based upon that year's duties and responsibilities (except data from the previous year's spring semester survey of student opinion). Such evaluations shall consider, as appropriate:

1. Teaching and Other Instructional Responsibilities

Teaching is the primary function of the university. Teaching may include classroom and laboratory instruction, student advising, mentoring student research, and other instructional activities. Teaching and other instructional responsibilities must be evaluated using multiple methods selected from the list below:

a. review by the unit administrator and/or peers of course materials such as syllabi, reading lists, teaching outlines, audiovisual materials, student manuals, student assignments and examinations, and/or other materials prepared for or relevant to teaching.

b. samples of student work on assignments, projects, papers, juries, or other examples of student achievement.

c. formal methods of peer review, including direct observation of teaching utilizing the appropriate university approved format (including direct observation of the teaching of new and tenure-track faculty). Methods to be used for this peer review are detailed in Faculty Senate resolution #93-44. The peer review instrument is provided in Faculty Senate resolution #16-60. The peer review instrument for on-line courses is provided in Faculty Senate resolution #11-53.

d. direct observation of teaching by the unit administrator.

e. review of student opinion data from course evaluations.

f. other procedures provided for in unit codes (FS Resolution #12-76, July 2012).

2. Scholarship
Measures of success in the area of scholarship include, but are not limited to, peer-reviewed publications, books, presentations, performances, patents, and national awards, including both honorary awards and competitively awarded external funding as appropriate to the discipline. These measures, and particularly national awards that recognize prominence in the discipline, will be positively reflected in annual evaluations and other personnel actions. Unit codes should define these criteria, and relative importance, in detail.

3. Patient Care and Related Clinical Responsibilities
Unit codes will describe expectations for clinical services and criteria for evaluation.

4. Service
Service on department, school, college, and university committees, councils, and senates; service to professional organizations; service to local, state and national governments; contributions to the development of public forums, institutes, continuing education projects, patient services and consulting in the private and public sectors; unit codes should define these criteria, and relative importance, in detail.

5. Other assigned responsibilities.

B. Fixed-term faculty members
The evaluation of fixed-term faculty members shall be based on their performance of duties as stated in their appointment letters, utilizing the criteria stated in the unit code.

IV. Reappointment of Probationary-Term Faculty Members
Refer to Part IX of the ECU Faculty Manual.

V. Subsequent appointments of Fixed-Term Faculty Members
Refer to Part IX of the Faculty Manual.

VI. Professional Advancement
Promotion for tenured and probationary-term faculty members and advancement in title for fixed-term faculty members are means through which professional achievement is encouraged, recognized, and rewarded by the university. The evaluation of faculty members for purposes of promotion or advancement in title shall accord with the regulations established in the unit code.
and shall employ the criteria contained in the unit code approved by the Chancellor (ECU Faculty Manual, Part IV).

Specific regulations and criteria governing evaluation of faculty for purposes of promotion or advancement in title may vary from unit to unit. For evaluations pertaining to fixed-term subsequent new appointment at a higher title, the criteria shall be stated in the unit code.

As a minimum, each unit shall:
- apply published criteria in teaching, scholarship, service, and clinical service, where relevant to the discipline, for evaluating faculty for promotion or advancement in title;
- make available procedures which will permit each faculty member to report achievements annually or on a more frequent basis; and
- inform each faculty member of the right to discuss his or her candidacy with the unit administrator and/or the appropriate unit committee at any time prior to the deadline for submission of materials.

A. Promotion for tenured and probationary-term faculty members

Upon request by a tenured faculty member, the unit administrator and the unit promotion committee shall evaluate the faculty member for promotion. Following such evaluations, the unit administrator and appropriate unit committee shall inform the faculty member of their respective recommendations. Promotion shall be based upon the faculty member's demonstrated professional competence and achievements. Procedures to be followed for promotion are found in ECU Faculty Manual, Part IX and Part X.

Promotion in academic rank should be accompanied by a salary increment, which shall be separate from any and all other increments to which the individual may be entitled, unless State of North Carolina or University of North Carolina regulations state otherwise.

B. Advancement in title for fixed-term faculty members

The unit code shall specify the criteria and the means of evaluation of fixed-term faculty members to be used for a subsequent new appointment at a higher title. Advancement in title shall be based upon the faculty member's demonstrated professional competence and achievements, and should be accompanied by a salary increment, which shall be separate from any and all other increments to which the individual may be entitled, unless State of North Carolina or University of North Carolina regulations state otherwise. Competence for advancement in title may be attested to by demonstrated excellence in the performance of duties specified in the appointment letter of the fixed-term faculty member and supported by the faculty member's annual performance evaluation.

The unit administrator shall notify eligible faculty members within four working days of receipt of the next higher administrator's call for advancement in title recommendations. Upon request by a fixed-term faculty member, the unit administrator and the personnel committee shall evaluate the faculty member for advancement in title. Following such evaluations, the unit administrator and appropriate unit committee shall inform the faculty member of their respective recommendations. Procedures to be followed for advancement in title should be specified in the unit code in accordance with ECU Faculty Manual, Part IX, Section I (II.B.3) and Part VIII, Section I.

VII. Salary

A. Initial Salary

Initial salary shall be based on degree attainment, academic rank, pertinent professional experience and qualifications, scholarly publication or its equivalent, and level of responsibility.
Consideration should be given to the salaries of personnel presently in the unit and must be consistent with University-established faculty salary ranges.

B. Determination of Annual Salary Increments
The unit administrator shall recommend annual salary increments to the appropriate administrative officials in accordance with requirements imposed by the North Carolina General Assembly, The University of North Carolina Board of Governors, the ECU Board of Trustees, and the university administration. Recommended salary adjustments shall rely upon criteria that have been established in the Faculty Manual, in unit codes, or in guidelines referenced in unit codes. Criteria for assessing merit are contained in unit codes. The unit administrator shall also inform the unit, in dollar amounts and percentages, the total adjustment, mean salary increment, and range in salary increments for the unit. Each faculty member shall be informed by the unit administrator of any salary increment recommendations made on behalf of the faculty member.

C. Benefits and Salary Increases for Fixed-Term Faculty
Equitability of salary and benefits for fixed-term faculty members should be reviewed annually. When salary increments are provided by the Board of Governors, full-time fixed-term faculty members who have completed one year of employment and have received a subsequent new appointment should be considered for a salary increase based upon their annual evaluation and criteria established by the Board of Governors, ECU Board of Trustees, and the unit code.

Full-time, fixed-term permanently appointed faculty members are entitled to those benefits that are provided to other full-time permanent faculty employees of ECU, unless State of North Carolina or University of North Carolina regulations state otherwise.

VIII. Faculty Personnel Files

A. Article 7 of Chapter 126 of the General Statute of North Carolina shall govern matters relating to an employee’s personnel file, its contents, and permissible access. Current General Statutes may be requested through the Office of University Counsel (formerly, the University Attorney) or through references in Joyner Library.

For questions regarding personnel file, contact the Faculty Senate Office, the appropriate Division Vice Chancellor, or the University Counsel Office.

B. Definition
“Personnel File” means any employment-related or personal information gathered by an employer or by the Office of State Human Resources. Employment-related information contained in a personnel file includes information related to an individual’s application, selection, promotion, demotion, transfer, leave, salary, contract for employment, benefits, suspension, performance evaluation, disciplinary actions, and termination. Personal information contained in a personnel file includes an individual’s home address, social security number, medical history, personal financial data, marital status, dependents, and beneficiaries. “Record,” as used in this Part VIII of the Faculty Manual, means the personnel information that each employer is required to maintain in accordance with G.S. 126-123.

The Personnel Action Dossier (PAD), defined in the ECU Faculty Manual Part X, Section I, is an evaluative document, employment-related personnel information, and a part of the faculty member’s personnel file. The personnel file is University property and is retained by the University.
Contents of the personnel file are kept in accordance with the Records Retention and Disposition Schedule approved by the Chancellor. Timing of storage and transfer vary depending on the specific type of document. (See http://www.ecu.edu/cs-lib/recordsmanagement/ecugeneralschedule.cfm for reference).

C. Location
Personnel records exist in various locations across campus. Academic Affairs and the Health Sciences divisions will maintain comprehensive lists of locations where files may be found on a website accessible to faculty members. The Faculty Senate office can direct faculty members to the appropriate website.

All records used in the formal evaluation of faculty members should be located in the primary collection of documents that are kept in the department or unit that are part of the personnel file, hereafter referred to as the department/unit personnel file. The unit administrator can inform the faculty member of the location of evaluative material.

An appeal hearing file or an investigative file prepared by the EEO Office or by the Office of University Counsel may include materials such as: filed grievances; appeals of non-reappointment or non-conferral of tenure; complaints filed by or against a faculty member with the ECU EEO Office alleging sexual harassment, discrimination based on race/ethnicity, color, genetic information, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy and pregnancy related conditions), sexual orientation, gender identity, age, disability, political affiliation, and veteran status ("Protected Class"), or a violation of the amorous relations policy; and records relating to any disciplinary action against a faculty member.

Information retained in the EEO Office or the University Counsel’s Office will remain confidential, but the documents collected and/or created in those offices are usually considered part of an investigative/preparation file and are not considered part of the department/unit personnel file. Disclosure of documents in those files is subject to applicable University policies and state laws. Additionally, in accordance with the relevant University policy and state laws, the University will formally notify the faculty member of any complaint or grievance formally filed against a faculty member and will follow the procedures prescribed for due process. In most cases, documents containing employment-related or personal information maintained in the EEO Office or University Counsel’s Office will be duplicates of documents in the department/unit personnel file. In all cases, the documents in those files will be available for review by the faculty member, except that the University does not waive rights and responsibilities to limit disclosure recognized by law, including but not limited to attorney-client communication privilege and attorney work product privilege.

State law requires that the University permit the public to have access to the following employment related information about each employee:

- date of original employment or appointment to state service;
- the terms of any contract by which the employee is employed whether written or oral, past and current, to the extent that the university has the written contract or a record of the oral contract in its possession;
- current position;
- title;
- current salary;
• date and amount of each increase or decrease in salary with the university;
• date and type of each promotion, demotion, transfer, suspension, separation, or other change in position classification with the university;
• date and general description of the reasons for each promotion with the university;
• date and type of each dismissal, suspension, or demotion for disciplinary reasons taken by the university. If the disciplinary action was a dismissal, a copy of the written notice of the final decision of the Chancellor setting forth the specific acts or omissions that are the basis of the dismissal; and
• the office to which the employee is currently assigned.

To the extent allowed by applicable law (e.g., Article 7 of Chapter 126 of the General Statutes of North Carolina), all other information contained in the personnel file is confidential and shall not be open for inspection and examination except to the following persons:

(1) The employee, applicant for employment, former employee, or his or her properly authorized agent, who may examine his or her own personnel file in its entirety except for (i) letters of reference solicited prior to employment or (ii) information concerning a medical disability, mental or physical, that a prudent physician would not divulge to a patient. An employee's medical record may be disclosed to a licensed physician designated in writing by the employee;

(2) The supervisor of the employee;

(3) A potential state or local government supervisor, during the interview process, only with regard to the performance management documents;

(4) Members of the General Assembly who may inspect and examine personnel records under the authority of G.S. 120-19;

(5) A party by authority of a proper court order may inspect and examine a particular confidential portion of a State employee's personnel file; and

(6) An official of an agency of the federal government, state government, or any political subdivision thereof. Such an official may inspect any personnel records when such inspection is deemed by the department head of the employee whose record is to be inspected or, in the case of an applicant for employment or a former employee, by the department head of the agency in which the record is maintained as necessary and essential to the pursuance of a proper function of said agency; provided, however, that such information shall not be divulged for purposes of assisting in a criminal prosecution, nor for purposes of assisting in a tax investigation; and

(7) Any person or corporation to which the Chancellor determines release of such information is essential as allowed by General Statute §126-24.

Evaluative materials or summaries thereof prepared by peer committees as part of a regular evaluation system are placed in the department/unit personnel file when signed by a representative of the committee. In particular, official copies of Personnel Action Dossiers, as outlined in Part X of the ECU Faculty Manual, including documentation submitted by faculty members for consideration in the tenure, reappointment, and promotion processes, shall reside in the department/unit personnel file.

No material obtained from an anonymous source shall be placed in the personnel file except for data from student opinion surveys. Data from student opinion surveys shall be submitted by the authorized surveying agent to the faculty member and the unit administrator. Administrators shall not keep secret files.
A faculty member who objects to material in the department/unit personnel file or other employment-related or personal information contained in the personnel file may place in the file a statement relating to the material the faculty member considers to be inaccurate or misleading. This concise statement shall be submitted to the custodian for inclusion as an attachment to the specific document. A faculty member who objects to material in the personnel file because it is inaccurate or misleading may seek the removal of such material from the personnel file in accordance with Part XII of the Faculty Manual.

E. Access
Personnel records may be located at various locations across campus. The personnel offices of Academic Affairs and the Health Sciences divisions will maintain comprehensive lists of locations where files may be found.

Faculty members may obtain access to their departmental/unit personnel file by submitting advance notice of at least 4 calendar days to the unit administrator. Confidential documents, as specified in D.1 (above), will be removed. The faculty member may request the unit administrator’s assistance in gathering files from various locations. The unit administrator must make arrangements to have office staff available to oversee the review process to ensure the integrity and safekeeping of the records and to assist in making copies of the file, if applicable. A faculty member may obtain copies of any materials contained in the personnel file subject only to restrictions provided by state law.

F. Disclosure of Confidential Information
Willful disclosure of confidential information or unauthorized access to a personnel file by any person violates state law and university regulations and may result in disciplinary action under university regulations. Any public official, employee, agent, University contractor, student worker, intern, or volunteer who knowingly and willfully permits these violations but does not act to address them has neglected his or her duties and may also be disciplined in accordance with university regulations.

IX. Amendment Procedure
Amendment procedures are subject to the University’s Regulation on Policies, Rules, and Regulations. The Faculty Senate will consider amendments to ECU Faculty Manual, Part VIII, Section I - Personnel Policies and Procedures that are proposed by any full-time member of the faculty, by any faculty committee, or by any member of the administration of East Carolina University. Amendment(s) submitted to the Faculty Senate for consideration shall be handled as any other item of legislation that comes before the Senate. If the Senate approves such a proposed amendment, the Senate shall submit the proposed amendment to the Chancellor and, if approved by the Chancellor, the amendment will be forwarded to the Board of Trustees for its approval. Consideration by the Board of Trustees is not required if the Chancellor has final authority to enact the amendment.

X. Effective Date
All provisions of these policies and procedures shall become effective on the date they are approved by the East Carolina University Board of Trustees or its designee.

I. ESTABLISHMENT

A. THIS AGREEMENT is made effective as of the date of the last signature affixed between John S. and Ann B. Laliotes (Donors) and the East Carolina University Foundation, Inc. (Foundation).

B. The Donors and the Foundation agree to establish a restricted endowment in the Foundation known as the John and Ann Laliotes Access Scholarship Endowment (Fund). The fund manager will be the President of the Foundation or a comparable position should this position title no longer exist (Administrator).

C. The Donor intends to establish the Fund with a gift to be made by bequest under provisions made in his will. The endowment will be considered fully funded when the corpus reaches $125,000.

II. STATEMENT OF INTENT

The Donor wishes to establish this fund to provide need based scholarship support for full-time students at ECU majoring within the College of Fine Arts and Communication.

III. SOURCE OF FUNDS

The Fund shall be initially established with the following gifts and shall be consistent with the Foundation’s Gift Acceptance Policy:

A. Bequest provision in the will of John Sarantos Laliotes and Elizabeth Ann Brandon Laliotes currently estimated at $125,000
H. A supplemental fund may be established if the Donor wishes to make annual gifts that will be used for the same purpose as the endowment. The Donor may direct gifts to the supplemental fund to make annual awards while the endowment is building, to support annual awards in the event the endowment is underwater, or if the Donor wishes to supplement the annual award from the endowment. The supporting fund is for annual awards, and like other annually funded awards, will be exempt from gift fees. Annually funded funds do not participate in investment earnings and are available to be spent at any time. Gifts made to the supplemental fund must clearly be stated as such or they will be deposited into the related endowed fund.

Should the academic area move to another school/college, have a name change, or other placement issue related to this Fund that may require a movement of the funding within or between Foundations at ECU, the Foundation Board of Directors shall review and approve the changes, again, bearing in mind the desires of the Donor as expressed in this fund agreement.

J. If the funds realized from the planned gift do not reach the permanently restricted fund minimums, the fund will be set up as a temporarily restricted fund in the ECU Foundation and used for the same purpose as stated in this fund agreement.

Gifts made to the Fund via telefund or annual fund solicitations are subject to a one-time Annual Fund department fee. These fee amounts are determined annually by the Foundation Board of Directors and will be in accordance with the Foundation’s Endowment Spending and Gift Fee Policy. An additional one-time Thomas Harriot College of Arts and Sciences fee, at a rate determined by the college, will be imposed on all gifts made by telefund or annual fund solicitation. All fees will be charged to the endowment’s investment earnings fund and will not reduce the fund’s corpus amount.
E. All gifts to and accumulated earnings of the Fund will be invested in the Foundation’s investment pool and will receive a prorated share of the net income or losses.
F. The spending distribution is determined by the Foundation Board of Directors who votes annually to adopt a rate of spending distribution applicable to all endowment funds.
G. In years when earned and accumulated investment earnings may be insufficient to meet the amount needed for the annual distribution or when multiyear commitments have been made, the Foundation Board of Directors may continue to make distributions, even if such distributions will reduce the total value of the endowment below the historical value of the corpus (the value of all gifts to the Fund). These spending distributions must be in accordance with the Foundation’s Endowment Spending and Gift Fee Policy, within what the Board has determined reasonable and prudent as noted within the North Carolina Uniform Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act (UPMIFA), and consistent with the spending distributions from similar endowments within the Foundation.
H. A supplemental fund may be established if the Donors wish to make annual gifts that will be used for the same purpose as the endowment. The Donors may direct gifts to the supplemental fund to make annual awards while the endowment is building, to support annual awards in the event the endowment is underwater, or if the Donors wish to supplement the annual award from the endowment. The supporting fund is for annual awards, and like other annually funded awards, will be exempt from gift fees. Annually funded funds do not participate in investment earnings and are available to be spent at any time. Gifts made to the supplemental fund must clearly be stated as such or they will be deposited into the related endowed fund.

I. If at some future time, it becomes impractical for the Foundation to achieve the designated purpose of the Fund, circumstances change, or it becomes unlawful or wasteful to expend the earnings from the Fund in the manner stated above, then, at the discretion of the Foundation Board of Directors, the Fund shall be used to further the objectives and purposes of East Carolina University, bearing in mind the desires of the Donors as expressed in this agreement. Should the academic area move to another school/college, have a name change, or other placement issue related to this Fund that may require a movement of the funding within or between Foundations at ECU, the Foundation Board of Directors shall review and approve the changes, again, bearing in mind the desires of the Donors as expressed in this fund agreement.

J. If the funds realized from the planned gift do not reach the permanently restricted fund minimums, the fund will be set up as a temporarily restricted fund in the School of Theatre and Dance and used for the same purpose as stated in this fund agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, these parties execute this Agreement.

The amount and terms of each scholarship and the recipient thereof shall be determined in accordance with College, University, and Foundation guidelines and procedures then in effect, and in accordance with the following considerations:

1. First preference to student from one of the following Eastern North Carolina counties: Northampton, Halifax, Nash, Wilson, Wayne, Duplin, Onslow, Jones, Lenox, Greene, Edgecombe, Hertford, Chowan, Gates, Perquimans, Pasquotank, Camden, Currituck, Dare, Tyrrell, Bertie, Washington, Martin, Hyde, Beaufort, Pitt, Pamlico, Carteret, Pender, New Hanover, Brunswick, Columbus, Bladen, Sampson, Cumberland, Johnston, Harnett, Hoke, Robeson, Scotland, or Craven.
2. Recipient must intend to practice in eastern North Carolina.

V. FUND ADMINISTRATION

This Fund shall be administered in accordance with the Foundation's policies and procedures and shall be consistent with the University's policies, as follows:

A. The Fund shall be used only for a qualified charitable purpose consistent with the laws of the State of North Carolina and section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.
B. The Foundation will hold and administer these proceeds and any subsequent additions to the Fund in accordance with the terms and conditions of this agreement and current endowment policies as regulated by the East Carolina University Medical and Health Sciences Foundation, Inc. Board of Directors (Foundation Board of Directors).
C. With the consent of the Foundation, other parties may also make gifts to the Fund, but they may not change the purpose of the Fund.
D. Fees: A one-time fee is charged to all new gifts to the Fund. An annual endowment management fee is also charged to the fund. These fee amounts are determined annually by the Foundation Board of Directors and will be in accordance with the Foundation's Endowment Spending and Gift Fee Policy. Gifts made to the Fund via telefund or annual fund solicitations are subject to a one-time Annual Fund department fee as determined by the East Carolina University Foundation, Inc. Board of Directors. All fees will be charged to the endowment's investment earnings fund and will not reduce the Fund's corpus amount.
E. All gifts to and accumulated earnings of the Fund will be invested in the Foundation's investment pool and will receive a prorated share of the net income or losses.
F. The spending distribution is determined by the Foundation Board of Directors who vote annually to adopt a rate of spending distribution applicable to all endowment funds.
G. In years when earned and accumulated investment earnings may be insufficient to meet the amount needed for the annual distribution or when multiyear commitments have been made, the Foundation Board of Directors may continue to make distributions, even if such distributions will reduce the total value of the endowment below the historical value of the corpus (the value of all gifts to the Fund). These spending distributions must be in accordance with the Foundation’s Endowment Spending and Gift Fee Policy, within what the Board has determined reasonable and prudent as noted within the North Carolina Uniform Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act (UPMIFA), and consistent with the spending distributions from similar endowments within the Foundation.

H. A supplemental fund may be established if the Donors wish to make annual gifts that will be used for the same purpose as the endowment. The Donors may direct gifts to the supplemental fund to make annual awards while the endowment is building, to support annual awards in the event the endowment is underwater, or if the Donors wish to supplement the annual award from the endowment. The supplemental fund is for annual awards, and like other annually funded awards, will be exempt from gift fees. Annually funded funds do not participate in investment earnings and are available to be spent at any time. Gifts made to the supplemental fund must clearly be stated as such or they will be deposited into the related endowed fund.

I. If at some future time, it becomes impractical for the Foundation to achieve the designated purpose of the Fund, circumstances change, or it becomes unlawful or wasteful to expend the earnings from the Fund in the manner stated above, then, at the discretion of the Foundation Board of Directors, the Fund shall be used to further the objectives and purposes of East Carolina University, bearing in mind the desires of the Donors as expressed in this agreement. Should the academic area move to another school/college, have a name change, or other placement issue related to this Fund that may require a movement of the funding within or between foundations at ECU, the Foundation Board of Directors shall review and approve the changes, again, bearing in mind the desires of the Donors as expressed in this fund agreement.

J. If the funds realized from the planned gift do not reach the permanently restricted fund minimums, the fund will be set up as a temporarily restricted fund in the College of Allied Health Sciences and used for the same purpose as stated in this fund agreement.
IN WITNESS WHEREOF, these parties execute this Agreement.

This Fund shall be used to provide scholarship support for students in the School of Theatre and Dance. The amount and terms of each scholarship award and the recipient thereof shall be determined in accordance with College, University, and Foundation guidelines and procedures then in effect. The Administrator shall be responsible for administering the distributions from the Fund and applying such distributions in accordance with Foundation and University policies and procedures and the following preferences:

1. Student majoring in Theatre Arts with a concentration in Musical Theatre or Professional Training.

V. FUND ADMINISTRATION

This Fund shall be administered in accordance with the Foundation’s policies and procedures and shall be consistent with the University’s policies, as follows:

A. The Fund shall be used only for a qualified charitable purpose consistent with the laws of the State of North Carolina and section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

B. The Foundation will hold and administer these proceeds and any subsequent additions to the Fund in accordance with the terms and conditions of this agreement and current endowment policies as regulated by the East Carolina University Foundation, Inc. Board of Directors (Foundation Board of Directors).

C. With the consent of the Foundation, other parties may also make gifts to the Fund, but they may not change the purpose of the Fund.

D. Fees: A one-time fee is charged to all new gifts to the Fund. An annual endowment management fee is also charged to the fund. Gifts made to the Fund via telefund or annual fund solicitations are subject to a one-time Annual Fund department fee. These fee amounts are determined annually by the Foundation Board of Directors and will be in accordance with the Foundation’s Endowment Spending and Gift Fee Policy. All fees will be charged to the endowment’s investment earnings fund and will not reduce the fund’s corpus amount.

E. All gifts to and accumulated earnings of the Fund will be invested in the Foundation’s investment pool and will receive a prorated share of the net income or losses.

F. The spending distribution is determined by the Foundation Board of Directors who votes annually to adopt a rate of spending distribution applicable to all endowment funds.

G. In years when earned and accumulated investment earnings may be insufficient to meet the amount needed for the annual distribution or when multiyear commitments have been made, the Foundation Board of Directors may continue to make distributions, even if such distributions will reduce the total value of the endowment below the historical value of the corpus (the value of all gifts to the Fund). These spending distributions must be in accordance with the Foundation’s Endowment Spending and Gift Fee Policy, within what the Board has determined reasonable and prudent as noted within the North Carolina Uniform Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act (UPMIFA), and consistent with the spending distributions from similar endowments within the Foundation.
H. A supplemental fund may be established if the Donors wish to make annual gifts that will be used for the same purpose as the endowment. The Donors may direct gifts to the supplemental fund to make annual awards while the endowment is building, to support annual awards in the event the endowment is underwater, or if the Donors wish to supplement the annual award from the endowment. The supporting fund is for annual awards, and like other annually funded awards, will be exempt from gift fees. Annually funded funds do not participate in investment earnings and are available to be spent at any time. Gifts made to the supplemental fund must clearly be stated as such or they will be deposited into the related endowed fund.

I. If at some future time, it becomes impractical for the Foundation to achieve the designated purpose of the Fund, circumstances change, or it becomes unlawful or wasteful to expend the earnings from the Fund in the manner stated above, then, at the discretion of the Foundation Board of Directors, the Fund shall be used to further the objectives and purposes of East Carolina University, bearing in mind the desires of the Donors as expressed in this agreement. Should the academic area move to another school/college, have a name change, or other placement issue related to this Fund that may require a movement of the funding within or between Foundations at ECU, the Foundation Board of Directors shall review and approve the changes, again, bearing in mind the desires of the Donors as expressed in this fund agreement.

J. If the funds realized from the planned gift do not reach the permanently restricted fund minimums, the fund will be set up as a temporarily restricted fund in the School of Theatre and Dance and used for the same purpose as stated in this fund agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, these parties execute this Agreement.
