

Dr. Linda Mooney is passionate about inequality as it pertains to race, gender, and sexual orientation. Through her experience as a criminologist, Dr. Mooney has witnessed situations that involved people being treated differently because of their social status.

Dr. Mooney is currently researching gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender inequality. She has worked with Dr. Lee Maril of the Center for Social Justice and Inequality Research, the Gay Lesbian Transsexual Student Union (GLBTSU), Dr. Lessie Bass, and Troy Smith. Dr. Mooney hopes to reach audiences such as policy makers to evoke change within different policies. When Dr. Mooney is not researching, she enjoys being the head of East Carolina Friends, a mentoring program.

<http://www.ecu.edu/cs-cas/soci/linda-mooney.cfm>