

Dr. Seodial Frank Deena is studying Caribbean literature theory and culture. He asserts that Caribbean studies are the basis for all post colonial and multicultural studies. Dr. Deena's interest in the Caribbean began as a child. He grew up in the Caribbean in a multicultural village. Through his research Dr. Deena connects Caribbean studies with African American history.

Dr. Deena has collaborated with various writers around the world. In addition to his studies Dr. Deena is completing a book about the Caribbean. He is currently collecting 10,000 books to give back to children in the Caribbean. Dr. Deena enjoys authors such as Zora Neale Hurston, Richard Wright, Alice Walker, and Gene Reece.
