Major in African and African American Studies
AAAS at East Carolina University
Thomas Harriot College of Arts and Sciences

Discover who you are and your relationship to our Mother Continent

Learn to think critically; learn to analyze; and learn the value of skepticism in your search for knowledge and wisdom

Consider the historical, social, cultural and political experiences of people of African descent in the US and throughout the world

Grow to respect more fully the diversity, history, and cultures of all humanity

Explore the histories of ideas about race and racism, especially how race informs the identities and experiences of all people of African descent

Gain the communications skills you need to converse with people from different cultures, nationalities and ethnic groups in order to compete in our global world

Deepen your compassion, open your mind, strengthen your hope, and spark your desire to move your country and the world forward

Take courses from many disciplines: anthropology, art, dance, English, geography, health, history, justice, music, political science, philosophy, psychology, and sociology

Research the global legacies of slavery, the Middle Passage, Jim Crow, imperialism, independence movements, and struggles for social justice

B.A. IN AFRICAN & AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDIES

The major in African and African American studies is an interdisciplinary degree program housed in the Thomas Harriot College of Arts and Sciences. Its comparative focus and multidisciplinary emphasis complement many existing programs that seek to prepare undergraduate students for competitive careers and productive work in a global world of different cultures, political systems, and economic infrastructures. Students pursuing a degree in AAAS will develop a broad perspective on human values and ethnic diversity, as well as an understanding of the socio-political, religious, and historical evidence related to African peoples, both in Africa and the diasporic communities of North America and the Atlantic world. Students are encouraged to combine a major in AAAS with others at East Carolina University. Minimum 120 s.h. of credit (TBA spring 2016) as follows:
