

The Office of Research in the College of Arts & Sciences has witnessed success in extramural support for research since its inception of coordinating panel reviews and editorial services. Federal offices offering grant opportunities also offer early review of draft proposals, which the Office of Research has incorporated into panel review sessions on the ECU campus. If you are interested in either level of peer panel review or editorial input, discuss with your department chair and associate dean for research, and request the assistance of the pre-award grant manager assigned to your area to arrange.
