FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Caterpillar Presents Final Installment for TECS

Caterpillar Inc. presented its final installment of $150,000 to the College of Technology and Computer Science from a $500,000 pledge made to the Construction Management Department’s High-Bay lab in 2006.

Caterpillar and Gregory Poole, a Caterpillar dealer, made the pledge for the lab to span over a five-year period that would serve as faculty development and training, equipment, materials as well as lab maintenance and student activities.

“The college would like to thank Caterpillar and Gregory Poole for their unwavering dedication and generous donations over the years,” says David White, dean of the college. “The lab provides students with the hands-on education needed for the working environment.”

Left Dean David White, Caterpillar, Inc. Associates. Dr. Leslie Pagliari, associate dean of the college, far right, Chancellor Steve Ballard.