

Come Work Where it Makes a Difference INTERNSHIP ANNOUNCEMENTS

Habitat for Humanity Goldsboro-Wayne is now accepting applications for two volunteer internship positions for the Spring 2009, Summer, or 2010-2011 academic school year. We have a high need for creative, imaginative, energetic, compassionate students in two open internship positions in our Goldsboro, NC office:

Special Events & Promotions Coordinator:

Ideal but not limited to communication/ public relations majors, the Special Events & Promotions Coordinator is responsible for communicating the mission and image of Habitat for Humanity to the public. Key responsibilities are developing brochures, website design, press releases, and social media outlets. The Coordinator will also promote special events and fundraisers and will be an integral part of our promotions team. The student(s) capture family experiences and highlight touching stories for use in educational and fundraising events. This person also assists in developing and coordinating secondary and collegiate fundraiser campaigns.

This position requires a junior or senior standing with superior writing, speaking, computer, and creative skills. Knowledge in graphic design, web publishing, and new technologies is a plus.

Faith Relations Coordinator:

Ideal but not limited to communication, business, or social science majors, the Faith Relations Coordinator will build relationships in the faith community by identifying key leadership contacts within these groups, strengthen our adopt-a-house faith coalitions by increasing participation, represent Habitat for Humanity at various faith services, create and maintain database and tracking program of faith-based community, organize events geared toward and involving the faith community, seek ways to maintain relationships with current faith group participants, and act as the liaison between the faith-build coalitions and the construction department.

This position requires a junior or senior standing with superior writing, speaking, computer, and relational skills. Faith group background is preferred.
