

East Carolina University School of Music

presents

Stars in the East

MASTER TEACHERS IN CHORAL MUSIC

A New Educational Symposium for Advanced and Aspiring Conductors

January 14, 15, and 16, 2010

Hosted by Daniel Bara, Director of Choral Activities and the East Carolina University Chamber Singers

A. J. Fletcher Music Center • Greenville, North Carolina

Featuring

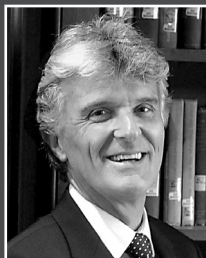

KENNETH FULTON

Louisiana State University
Thursday, January 14

ANTON ARMSTRONG

St. Olaf Choir
Friday, January 15

SIMON CARRINGTON

Yale Schola Cantorum
Saturday, January 16

Limited guest registration is available.

For registration information and more details, visit www.ecu.edu/music/stars.

MASTER TEACHERS IN CHORAL MUSIC

- Public clinics with high school choirs
- Public interviews with acclaimed clinicians
- Open rehearsals with the acclaimed ECU Chamber Singers
- Conducting master classes
- Choral literature and resources for the collegiate conductor and graduate student
- Opportunity to network with peers and mentors in an intimate, relaxed environment

CHORAL MUSIC AND CONDUCTING AT ECU

ECU is proud to take its place as a leader in choral music education, religious arts education, voice training, choral artistry, and graduate student conductor training.

BM degrees with voice emphasis in:

Choral music education, performance, music therapy, musical theater, sacred music, jazz, and theory/composition

MM degrees with conducting emphasis in:

Performance and sacred music. Graduate assistantships are available for 2010–2011. Graduate conducting applicants should submit application materials by January 15, 2010.

FOR MORE INFORMATION, CONTACT

Dr. Daniel Bara
Director of Choral Activities
barad@ecu.edu

Individuals requesting accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) should call 252-737-1016 (voice/TTY) at least 48 hours prior to the event.