Ken White
"Start eyes..."

Ken White is to the 1977 Playboy profile of lighting designer during the school year as well as being an instigator for a society of chase chasing stage visionary. Having always worked as lighting designer, he then went to work for the local production manager in the early 80s as a way to make his way to the top. Having started out as a lighting designer, he soon found himself working on stage productions that were larger than life. He decided to quit his job as a lighting designer and start his own company. Currently, Ken White is the owner of his own lighting design company. He is also a professor at a local university, teaching lighting design to the next generation of designers. He has won several awards for his work in lighting design and continues to be recognized for his contributions to the field.