The Advanced Education in General Dentistry (AEGD) program is a one-year residency program at East Carolina University's new School of Dental Medicine. Using innovative, state-of-the-art technology at our new Community Service Learning Centers (CSLC), residents will be able to:

- expand their knowledge in the diagnosis and treatment of oral and maxillofacial diseases
- gain advanced clinical skills
- become certified in Advanced Cardiac Life Support
- learn implantology, cosmetic dentistry, and surgical techniques
- develop practice management expertise while working in a private practice-like setting

Our CSLCs are located throughout North Carolina, and two or more residents will learn and practice at each site alongside skilled ECU faculty and fourth-year dental students.

Applicants must be graduates of a dental school that is accredited by the American Dental Association's Commission on Dental Accreditation or provide proof of their expected graduation date prior to July 1. A competitive resident stipend and benefits package are offered to residents.
