Dr. Iquebal Hasan, clinical assistant professor of oral medicine at the ECU School of Dental Medicine, provides diagnostic and therapeutic care for patients with dry and burning mouth, including those with Sjögren’s Syndrome, as well as for medically complex patients.

The many complex needs of patients with Sjögren’s Syndrome require a multi-disciplinary approach. Early diagnosis and symptom management are vital to prevent complications.

Prior to joining the ECU School of Dental Medicine in 2016, Dr. Hasan provided diagnostic and therapeutic care as a faculty member at the University of Kentucky College of Dentistry Orofacial Pain Clinic. In Kentucky, he worked closely with medical specialists on the care of patients. He trained in hospital dentistry and oral medicine at Carolinas Medical Center in Charlotte, N.C.

Location

Dr. Hasan brings his many years of patient care and research to the people of eastern North Carolina at the ECU School of Dental Medicine Faculty Practice located in Ledyard E. Ross Hall, 1851 MacGregor Downs Road, Greenville, North Carolina.

Helping patients with:
- Oral Soft Tissue Biopsies
- Burning Mouth and Dry Mouth and Lips
- Dental Clearance for Patients Receiving Radiation Therapy and Chemotherapy
- Dental Clearance for Transplant Patients
- Dental Clearance Prior to Bisphosphonate and Denosumab Use
- Dental Management of Medically Complex Patients
- Minor Salivary Gland Biopsies
- Oral Fungal, Viral, & Bacterial Infections
- Oral Lesions
- Oral Manifestations of Systemic Diseases
- Sjögren’s Syndrome (Management of Oral Manifestations and Diagnosis)

Call 252-737-7122 to schedule an appointment.

Presentations

Dr. Hasan is also available to give scholarly presentations.

www.ecu.edu/dental