

LeeAnn Eagle Brown received her undergraduate degree with the class of 1999 and decided to continue to pursue her post-professional education while practicing OT in pediatric settings with sensory integration interests. She obtained her post-professional Masters degree in OT with the graduating class of 2004 and is now living in Wilmington, NC with her husband, Jack. LeeAnn did an outstanding job on her thesis and will be presenting it at the AOTF Graduate Poster Session at the American Occupational Therapy Association Conference in Long Beach, CA this May 2005. Her study was a single case of a child with hemiparesis. She used constraint induced movement therapy for 21 days and found it made a significant difference in the child's functional performance. LeeAnn will be submitting the paper for publication this spring.
