There have been several changes in the College of Education this summer. A few departments and many faculty offices have been moved to buildings other than Speight in an attempt to accommodate the growth in professional education faculty within the college. We have also seen a change in key leadership positions. In addition, some internal reorganization has occurred with the Rural Education Institute and Legislators’ School.

The College of Education at ECU has a new Interim Dean, Dr. John Swope. Dr. Swope was the Associate Dean for the college and was appointed interim dean by Vice Chancellor and Provost Jim Smith in July 2006. Dr. Swope has over 32 years in education and has been with the College of Education as a faculty member, department chair and Associate Dean. His experience and commitment to the College of Education made him the most obvious and best qualified choice for the interim position.

Former Dean Marilyn Sheerer has accepted the position of Interim Vice Chancellor for Student Life within the university. This position was vacated by Dr. Garrie Moore upon his retirement from ECU. We will miss Dr. Sheerer’s leadership, energy and enthusiasm; however, we are thrilled that she is a tenured faculty member in our college and remains one of our biggest supporters.

A search committee has been elected to seek a permanent dean for the college. The search is chaired by Dr. Alan White, Dean, Harriot College of Arts and Sciences.

The Department of Curriculum and Instruction in the College of Education will also see a change in leadership next semester. Dr. David Powers, Chair, will begin phased retirement with the January 2007 semester. Dr. Powers was instrumental in the design of the department and has led the largest department in the college through enormous growth and many accomplishments. His leadership, organizational skills, and commitment to supporting faculty in their work will be missed.

A search committee has been elected to seek a permanent chair for the department. The search is chaired by Dr. Patricia Anderson, Professor, Department of Curriculum and Instruction and a former chair of the ECU Faculty Senate.

Dr. Bill Sugar has been named Interim Chair of the Department of Library Science and Instructional Technology. The former chair, Dr. Al Jones, has assumed an administrative position to lead the department in the process of obtaining full American Library Association accreditation. Dr. Jones is the perfect person to assist the department with this important process. Dr. Sugar has been a faculty member in the department for several years and will do an excellent job continuing the fine work of the department.

Dr. Nancy Davis, part-time director of the

From the Director’s Desk

New Faces and New Places in the College of Education

There have been several changes in the College of Education this summer. A few departments and many faculty offices have been moved to buildings other than Speight in an attempt to accommodate the growth in professional education faculty within the college. We have also seen a change in key leadership positions. In addition, some internal reorganization has occurred with the Rural Education Institute and Legislators’ School.

The College of Education at ECU has a new Interim Dean, Dr. John Swope. Dr. Swope was the Associate Dean for the college and was appointed interim dean by Vice Chancellor and Provost Jim Smith in July 2006. Dr. Swope has over 32 years in education and has been with the College of Education as a faculty member, department chair and Associate Dean. His experience and commitment to the College of Education made him the most obvious and best qualified choice for the interim position.

Former Dean Marilyn Sheerer has accepted the position of Interim Vice Chancellor for Student Life within the university. This position was vacated by Dr. Garrie Moore upon his retirement from ECU. We will miss Dr. Sheerer’s leadership, energy and enthusiasm; however, we are thrilled that she is a tenured faculty member in our college and remains one of our biggest supporters.

A search committee has been elected to seek a permanent dean for the college. The search is chaired by Dr. Alan White, Dean, Harriot College of Arts and Sciences.

The Department of Curriculum and Instruction in the College of Education will also see a change in leadership next semester. Dr. David Powers, Chair, will begin phased retirement with the January 2007 semester. Dr. Powers was instrumental in the design of

Contents:

News from the ECU Campus 2
From Our Students 3
News from the Network 4-5
News from the WPE Hub 7
Contacts 7

Continued on page 7
News from the ECU Campus

Campus Day For Local Elementary Students

EC Scholars provided a group of 22 Belvoir Elementary School students with an entertaining and enriching day on East Carolina University’s campus in September.

The day was hosted by the 2006 EC Scholars and the Office of the EC Scholars and Honors Program. Activities included a tour of ECU campus; a tour of the Honors Students and International Student Scholars residence hall, games, a Fall Cook–out and Storybook Theater. The Storybook Theater was put on by Professor Patch Clark and students from the School of Theater and Dance with special guests from the Student Association of Latino Spanish Affairs.

The Belvoir children, who have been paired with an EC Scholar or ECU Honors student as tutor and “buddy” for this academic year, were given ECU notebooks, pencils and a University Honors Program sticker to keep a journal of the day’s activities.

All the participants are part of a community engagement and Academic Service–Learning Program in which ECU students are paired with children of migrant Latino families in the Belvoir Elementary School Community.

The objective of bringing the Belvoir student to ECU Campus is so they become acquainted with ECU and know the university is a friendly place where they can come to learn. We also hope experiences like this on campus will help spur additional curiosity for learning and support their ambitions to attend college some day. Since these students come from migrant families, they may not see college as a real possibility or as an opportunity in the future. We want to change that.

The ECU students’ involvement with this community consists of tutoring the Belvoir School children in reading and writing. ECU students benefit by participating in service learning and children participating in the program and in the Campus Day event are children of migrant workers.

With their involvement in the Belvoir Program, the EC Scholars and ECU Honors students are developing positive relationships with the children while they gain a diverse cultural awareness and increased knowledge in the cultural and ethnic diversity in their own community.

For more information on the EC Scholars and Honors Program at ECU, visit our website at www.ecu.edu/honors.

The New Teacher Support Network at East Carolina University

The Department of Curriculum and Instruction at East Carolina University is pleased to announce the development of a creative and exciting way to support the newest teachers in the Latham Clinical Schools Network. The New Teacher Support Network (NTSN) is an innovative website designed to offer support and resources for initially licensed teachers in schools throughout the network.

The NTSN offers support in two ways. One area of support includes an external resources section which is a list of links to websites outside ECU that may be of interest and help to new teachers. These sites include resources on lesson planning, classroom management, motivation, and a host of other issues pertinent to education and to new teachers in particular. Perhaps the most exciting component of the website is the Ask-an-Expert page. On this page, new teachers may submit a question to an expert at ECU. For example, if a new teacher has a question about resources available to teach a social studies unit using primary resources, he or she may submit a question to our expert in social studies education and expect a reply within 72 business hours. We are excited to say that we have 49 experts available to answer queries in 45 different areas of expertise including, but not limited to, academically and intellectually gifted, assistive technology, bilingual education, classroom management, learning disabilities, motivation, reading, teacher licensure, and more. For a complete list of areas of expertise available, please visit the website at http://www.ecu.edu/cs-edu/ntsn/Index.cfm. Alternately, this site can be located by going to the College of Education homepage and scrolling down to the Resources section. You will see the New Teacher Support Network listed there.

Please contact Carol Greene at greeneh@ecu.edu or (252) 328-5316 if you have questions or need any further information.
News from the ECU Campus

News from the Student Outreach Office

East Carolina GEAR UP NC Day- Introduces Students to College Experience

Approximately 300 middle school students arrived on the East Carolina University campus, Wednesday, October 11, 2006, for GEAR UP NC Day at ECU. The day is designed to encourage young people to consider and begin preparing for college. The participants are part of GEAR UP (Gaining Early Awareness and Readiness for Undergraduate Programs) North Carolina which is a comprehensive, statewide partnership dedicated to increasing the number of students who are prepared to enter and succeed in postsecondary education. The goal of GEAR UP is to provide early college preparation and awareness services through comprehensive mentoring, tutoring, counseling, outreach, and other supportive services for students, educators and parents. The support services enhance students’ academic skills, encourage educators to use more rigorous academic standards, and involve parents in the education of their children. GEAR UP NC seeks to significantly increase the number of low-income students enrolling in and completing college.

Students experienced a day of college life, complete with a workshop, a program fair, interact with some of our students and staff, campus tour and some high spirited entertainment from some of ECU's student groups.

The day began in Mendenhall Student Center with registration and welcome and greetings at 10:00 am. Middle schools from the following systems participated: Beaufort, Columbus, Craven, Granville, Hyde, Johnston, Martin, Wayne and Weldon City.

GEAR UP NC Day at ECU was sponsored by the College of Education and ECU Admissions.

FTA/Teacher Cadet Day 2006

The College of Education hosted Teacher Cadet/FTA Day at East Carolina University on Tuesday, November 7, 2006, from 9:30 am – 2:00 pm. The featured speaker for this event was Margo Arnold, a 5th grade teacher at Chicod Elementary School in Pitt County. Ms. Arnold was recently selected as the local Wal-Mart Teacher of the Year.

The day's events were designed to encourage interested students to pursue teaching. The participants heard from various members of the College of Education faculty and staff, ate in the dining hall and toured the campus.

This year the College of Education has formed Teacher Cadet Partnerships with the following schools: Fuquay-Varina HS in Wake County, North Lenoir HS in Lenoir County, C B Aycock HS in Wayne County, J H Rose HS in Pitt County, Washington HS and Northside HS in Beaufort County, Smithfield-Selma HS in Johnston County and Currituck County HS in Currituck County.

For more information contact Tarrick Cox, Director of Student Outreach for the College of Education at (252) 328-1518 or coxta@ecu.edu.

2007 Mary Lois Staton Reading/Language Arts Conference

The Mary Lois Staton Reading/Language Arts Conference will be held on Monday, February 12, 2007 from 8:00 a.m. until 3:30 p.m., at the Greenville Hilton, Greenville, N.C. This year's conference is particularly exciting as we celebrate its 25th anniversary! The annual event is sponsored by East Carolina University's College of Education and by the Department of Curriculum & Instruction. The Co-Directors of this event are Lanette Moret and Kathy Misulis with Conference Committee members: Terry Atkinson, Tom Caron, Paula Costello, Sharon de Beck, Alice Feret, Robin Griffith, and Elizabeth Swaggerty.

The Mary Lois Staton Reading/Language Arts Conference presents an excellent professional development opportunity for educators. The day-long conference will feature a keynote speaker, author's luncheon speaker, and concurrent sessions presented by teachers and university faculty members. A variety of topics will be presented for educators in pre-K through high school.

Specific information about the conference including the Call for Proposals and conference registration information will be available on the conference website: http://www.ecu.edu/cs-educ/ci/reading/MLS/index.cfm. For more information, contact Ms. Susan O’Beirne at (252) 328-5558 or obeirnes@ecu.edu, Lanette Moret at (252) 328-6174 or moretl@ecu.edu or Kathy Misulis at (252) 328-6128 or misulisk@ecu.edu.

Please plan to join us!

2007 Clinical Teacher Conference

The Latham Clinical Schools Network is planning its Fifth Annual Clinical Teacher Conference for Thursday, March 22, 2007. The theme of this year’s conference is “Community Resources for Clinical Teachers.” The three concurrent sessions will offer clinical teachers information about programs and resources in the ECU community and throughout the Latham Clinical Schools Network. All clinical teachers of spring 2007 Senior II interns are invited to the Clinical Teacher Conference. As a gift to their clinical teachers, the Senior II interns will be the substitute for the day, free of charge. Unfortunately, the Latham Clinical Schools Network can not support the cost of substitutes when two clinical teachers share an intern. We look forward to seeing all of our Senior II clinical teachers in March.
Clinical Schools Network News

News from the Network

Carteret County

“Home Grown” is the Best

Carteret County is fortunate in many ways, but the top of the list is our teacher recruitment and retention rate. Some say it’s the beach, some say it’s the laid-back atmosphere, some say it’s the high EOG/EOC scores. I say in addition to all of the above, by partnering with ECU, Carteret County has the ability and forethought to provide the support necessary to grow our own teachers. Whether it’s through Wachovia Partnership East or through the usual college campus route, many of the interns coming to our county are natives of the area. Each year we welcome approximately 20+ prospective teachers to our classrooms to train with some of the finest master educators found anywhere. In turn, we are rewarded by having a horde of high quality professionals ready to step into a classroom without missing a beat. Twenty-one interns were assigned to our county’s schools last year. Of that twenty-one, eight were hired this year as full time classroom teachers. The principals hired these teachers without hesitation, based on documented evidence of their quality teaching practices during their internships. We are very fortunate this year to add Talley Long, Lauren Mann, Kelly Rawston, Lorrie Silvia, Krista Rhinehardt, Melissa Chambers, Nora Styron, and Chelsie Guthrie to our Carteret County list of educators.

Pitt County

Business and Technology Academy Celebration

The Pitt County Business and Technology Academy held a celebration for students and parents in the Club Level at Dowdy-Ficklen Stadium, East Carolina University on Tuesday, August 29, 2006 at 6:30 pm. Fifty ninth grade students have been accepted into the first Academy class for 2006 at the six area high schools. The Business and Technology Academy is modeled after the Health Sciences Academy which has been serving students since the 2003-04 school year. The Business and Technology Academy will cluster students to share some of the same classes each day and have some of the same teachers from year to year. Students will take a sequence of academic and technical coursework to prepare them to pursue college degrees and industry certifications in computer science, information systems and business administration. Academy students will be provided with work-based learning experiences and career development activities.

Pitt County Schools and Pitt Community College faculty have developed sample four year plans to enable Academy students to earn college credit while still in high school. The Academy is a partnership between Pitt County Schools, Pitt Community College, East Carolina University, the Greenville-Pitt County Chamber of Commerce, and business and industry partners.

The Academy serves as an opportunity to jump start student careers and assist them in the transition from high school to college curriculum. Those who choose to participate in the program will be assigned an ambassador and become eligible to attend the Business and Technology Academy Summer Institute in June 2007.

Pitt County is one of Seven School Districts in North Carolina Selected for NCLB Pilot Program

Pitt County Schools is one of seven school districts in North Carolina selected to participate in a national pilot to switch the order of the first two years of sanctions that the No Child Left Behind federal law applies to schools in Title I School Improvement. This information was received in October in a notice sent to State Superintendent June Atkinson from the U.S. Department of Education. North Carolina is one of five states approved to participate in this national pilot for the 2006-2007 school year. Others states include Alaska, Delaware, Indiana, and Virginia.

Pat Clark Named to Educator’s Hall of Fame

Pat Clark, principal at the new Hope Middle School, has been named to the Educator’s Hall of Fame at East Carolina University.

Clark has been in education for 26 years. Her classroom experience includes teaching in both the elementary and high school setting. She served two years as an assistant principal at Ayden Elementary School and another two years as principal at Falkland Elementary School. Clark then joined Wintergreen Intermediate, where she served eight years as the principal. In April, the school board named Clark the principal at Hope Middle School. The new school located on Mills Road opened in August 2006.

The Educator’s Hall of Fame is established by the College of Education and the College of Education’s Advancement Council at ECU to honor education professionals who have made distinguished contributions to the field of education. Clark and others will have their names permanently displayed on the Wall of Fame, located in the Speight Building.

An induction ceremony will be held on November 11 at 10:00 a.m. in the Fletcher Recital Hall.

Wayne County

For the Fall semester of the 2006-2007 school year, the Wayne County Public School System welcomes Senior Interns, Michael Smith at Eastern Wayne High, Adrian Grandy at Mt. Olive Middle, Vickie Fitzpatrick, Suzanne Rogers and Caitlyn Narron at Charles B. Aycock High, Mary Ritten and Caitlin Allen at Eastern Wayne High, Jenniver Baron at Northeast Elementary, Laura Albaugh at Tommy’s Road Elementary, James Bailey at Spring Creek Elementary, Christie Frederick at Northwest Elementary, Sue Hill at Grantham Elementary, Debbie Howell at Meadow Lane Elementary, Judy Alexander at North Drive Elementary, Leisha Best at Brogden Primary, Julie Fail and Rebecca Wychunas at Rosewood Elementary, Hanna Brozovsky at School Street Elementary, Kay Grady at Southern Wayne High and Sheley Price at Spring Creek High.

To our nine returning Senior II interns, we welcome each of you back and hope you are having a successful experience as you, along with your clinical teachers, provide a stimulating learning environment for the students in our school system.

Congratulations!!

Twenty-two Wayne County teachers participated in the clinical teacher training during the summer. Completing the summer training were Vonder Ashford, Heather Best, Ivy Brown, Lynn Bull, Nicole Carter, Roxie Cauley, Jason Cox, Kathy Thompson Davis, Jennifer Heim, Doris Hopes, Kimberly Isler, Crystal Jones, Aimee M. Kahler, Tracy N. McKeel, Karen Mzyk, Anjita Rao, Linda A. Rice, Shannon Rivenbark, Jacqueline Rogers, Tracy Salter, “Tom” P.F. Yates Jr., and Stephanie Lancaster Yelverton.

Wayne County Schools takes pride in announcing Connie Whaley, an eighth grade language arts and social studies teacher at Greenland Middle School Teacher of the Year for the 2006 – 2007. Ms. Whaley received this honor and recognition at the annual Teacher of the Year banquet on Thursday, August 17, 2006 at the Goldsboro Country Club.

Administrators chose Ms. Whaley from a pool of individual Teachers of the Year from the thirty-one Wayne County Public Schools. As a finalist, Connie received a $5,000 travel stipend to use outside of the U.S. and an additional $1,000 to use for her global travels. She will now advance to the selection process for the regional Teacher of the Year.

Ms. Whaley has been teaching for 28 years. She earned a Master’s Degree in Library Science from East Carolina University, a Masters of Arts in Education from East Carolina University, and a Bachelor’s in Intermediate Education from East Carolina University.

Ms. Whaley earned National Board Certification in 1998 in Early Adolescence English/Language Arts. Other achievements include earning the Governor’s Award for Excellence in Teaching Language Arts in 1990; being chosen by students for “Who’s Who Among America’s Teachers” six times since 1992 and being named Norwayne Middle School Teacher of the Year twice.

Wilson County

CSI comes to Wilson

On August 8-10, 2006, Wilson County Schools held its first annual CSI: Curriculum Services Institute. During the three-day institute, twenty-four professional development sessions of one-half day to two days in length were offered to employees of Wilson County Schools. Presenters included Connie Prevatte (Balanced Literacy), Melba Johnson (Writing), Tom Smith (Section 504), Kathy Kennedy (Questioning), Alisha Das (ESL) and many in-house presenters on topics such as classroom behavior management, student assistance team processes and effective teaching strategies for specific subject areas. One elementary teacher commented, “I learned fantastic methods for fostering a positive atmosphere, and I learned strategies to encourage every student to participate.” A high school teacher stated, “Wow! Wow! Wow! This workshop was AMAZING and I immediately plan to incorporate this group method into my classroom routine.” Another teacher summed it up by saying, “I learned strategies that will help me to improve the academic achievement of all of my students.”
The Office of Teacher Education welcomes three new Wachovia Partnership East (WPE) hub site coordinators: Mrs. Laura Bilbro-Berry, Northeast Consortium Coordinator, Mrs. Kathy Bradley, North Central Consortium Coordinator, and Mrs. Paula Hopper, Virtual Consortium Coordinator. These ladies join Ms. Anne Faulkenberry, Coastal Consortium Coordinator and Dr. Debbie Grady, South Central Consortium Coordinator. We are excited to have a full compliment of hub site coordinators as they are all busy recruiting new cohorts. Currently WPE coordinators are recruiting students for cohorts in Elementary Education, Special Education-General Curriculum, and Middle Grades Education, Math and Science concentrations. If you have questions about upcoming cohorts, please contact the appropriate hub site coordinator for more information.

Currently there are 216 candidates enrolled in 13 WPE cohorts. These candidates represent 15 partnering community colleges. Approximately 54 percent of these candidates are currently employed as teachers’ assistants in 19 LEAs. The first North Central cohort is scheduled to graduate at the end of the semester; these candidates will join the 40 WPE graduates that have already completed their degree requirements. We look forward to celebrating their accomplishments at the end of the semester.

Event Highlight: WPE Northeast Consortium Opens

On September 13, 2006, East Carolina University, in partnership with community colleges and northeastern school systems, opened the newest Wachovia Partnership East Consortium. The event was held at the hub site, Beaufort County Community College. Dr. David McLawhorn, President of Beaufort County Community College, gave welcoming remarks to those in attendance. He noted in his comments that he was thrilled to bring the opportunity of four-year education degrees to the northeast region. Dr. Swope, interim dean of the College of Education, also spoke and expressed his gratitude to BCCC for agreeing to serve as a host site. The opportunity to provide degrees through distance education was noted as a positive by both Dr. McLawhorn and Dr. Swope.

Juan Austin, Regional Community Affairs Manager for Wachovia, brought greetings on behalf of the Wachovia Foundation. He stated that he was pleased that the original gift from the foundation was being utilized to develop quality educators. He also noted that he felt like the partnership with East Carolina University was a positive one.

Dr. Vivian Covington, Director of Teacher Education, gave remarks in thanks to the community college partners, school system partners, the Wachovia Foundation, and the ECU faculty and staff who support the program. She introduced Laura Bilbro-Berry, the coordinator for the Wachovia Partnership East Northeast Consortium, who briefly spoke about her excitement in growing fine teachers within the region. She expressed that she looked forward to working with all the partners to accomplish that goal.

A reception was held after the program. Dr. Julius Walker, Superintendent of Washington County Schools, and Dr. Nelson Smith, Superintendent of Tyrell County Schools, showed their support of WPE by attending the event. Dr. Ralph Soney, President of Roanoke-Chowan Community College, was also in attendance. The following other distinguished guests were also present for the celebration:

- Dr. David Powers
  Curriculum and Instruction Chairperson
  College of Education
- Dr. Katherine Misulis
  Coordinator of Reading Education
  College of Education
- Ms. Betty Lloyd
  Director of Personnel
  Washington County Schools
- Ms. Michelle Maddox
  Director Personnel
  Edenton-Chowan Schools
- Mr. A.J. Tyson
  Dean of Instruction
  Roanoke-Chowan Community College
- Mr. Tom Schwartz
  Resource Development Officer
  Roanoke Chowan Community College
- Mr. Colin Everhart
  Chair of College Transfer
  Martin Community College

In addition, the event also hosted special guest, Ms. Kathy Taft, State Board of Education Member, as well as other distinguished individuals from the College of Education and Beaufort County Community College.

The opening of the Wachovia Partnership East Northeast Consortium will provide opportunities for education degrees through distance education in Beaufort, Bertie, Dare, Edenton-Chowan, Hertford, Hyde, Martin, Tyrell, and Washington counties.
News from a Wachovia Partnership East Hub Site

North Central Consortium

Recruiting in the Wachovia Partnership East (WPE) North Central Consortium is going strong thanks to partner support. Many partnering school systems have taken advantage of WPE to encourage teacher assistants to pursue four-year teaching degrees. Expectations for a strong fall elementary cohort in the North Central Consortium are high.

Wilson County Schools is one example of how a supportive environment for teacher assistants and multiple communication methods by district personnel have been successful recruiting strategies. Eight teacher assistants from Wilson County Schools are participating in Wachovia Partnership East cohorts.

Some of the recent strategies used by Wilson County Schools and by partners across the consortium that are contributing to successful recruitment of potential teachers include:

- Information sessions about WPE and financial resources scheduled during the school day for teacher assistants.
- Follow up transcript review appointments by the WPE Coordinator in geographic regions of the district.
- Communication with principals at principals’ meetings about opportunities for recruitment.
- Tuition assistance for employees pursuing four year degrees.
- Periodic communication of other support resources for teacher assistants (ie. NCMTEC and Praxis opportunities).
- Inclusion of information about WPE in substitute teacher orientation sessions and PTO meetings.

All Wachovia Partnership East coordinators are eager to help each LCSN partner to grow your own teachers. For more information contact the WPE Coordinator in your region.

From the Director’s Desk

New Faces and New Places in the College of Education

Rural Education Institute (REI), retired this summer. In an effort to more fully integrate the institute with the College of Education, REI will now be a part of the Office of Teacher Education. Professional development opportunities for our public school partners and student outreach programs for public school students, such as Legislators’ School, Gear Up and Teacher Cadet, will be best served by being associated with the Latham Clinical Schools Network. More detailed information will be shared in forthcoming newsletters.

Fall is a time of change in nature and so it is with the College of Education! We wish all of our past leaders well, and we look toward our new leadership to continue the tradition of excellence through partnership.
We Want to Hear from You

Alumni, we want to be informed of professional accomplishments you have made since graduation. If you have received a professional award or honor, a promotion, or a new job, contributed to your community in a significant way, or if you have experienced a personal triumph, please drop us a line at the College of Education so we can share that news with fellow alumni and the readership of Clinical Schools Network News. Simply complete the form and return it to the address below, or e-mail your information to www.coe.ecu.edu.

Name: ___________________________________________ Title/Employer: _____________________________
Work Address: ___________________________________ City: __________ State: _____ Zip: ____________
Home Address: ___________________________________ City: __________ State: _____ Zip: ____________
Home Phone: (_____) __________________ Work Phone: (_____) __________________ Fax: ___________________
E-mail Address: ____________________________________________________________
News: __________________________________________________________________________________
____________________________________________________________________________________
____________________________________________________________________________________
____________________________________________________________________________________
____________________________________________________________________________________
Mail this form to Office of Clinical Experiences, College of Education, East Carolina University, 104 Speight Building, Greenville, NC 27858-4353