

The Renaissance Computing Institute (RENCI) is pleased to provide the Innovation and Technology award to a student whose project, in the opinion of the judge(s), demonstrates high standards in technology and/or engineering. Special consideration shall be given to projects that increase public awareness of the integration of computer science and computing technologies into science and engineering used in Earth Science and/or Environmental Management.

RENCI agrees to provide a judge or judges for this award and to present the award certificate to the winner. In addition to the certificate, the award winner will receive an iPod Nano (for group projects, no more than two Nanos will be awarded).