NOMINATING COMMITTEE FOR FACULTY OFFICERS REPORT
Candidates for 2022/2023 Faculty Officers

Candidate for Chair of the Faculty

Anne Ticknor, College of Education

I am honored to be a candidate for Chair of the Faculty at East Carolina University. It has been a privilege to serve as Parliamentarian for the Faculty Senate since 2020 with officers Chair Martínez, Vice-Chair Scemama, and Secretary Rose. I have learned from each of them and am ever grateful for their leadership and experience as we navigated the global pandemic, welcomed Chancellor Rogers, searched for and hired Provost Robin Coger, in addition to the regular activities of Faculty Senate. As part of this team of dedicated faculty officers, I have learned the importance of a Faculty Senate Chair who is intentional, thoughtful, passionate, and committed to shared governance. I bring these qualities with me as well as over 25 years of experience as a public educator.

During my 12 years at ECU, I have been an active participant in shared governance and am committed to supporting and affirming faculty. I am passionate about continuing Faculty Senate efforts toward a more equitable university that affirms and values all faculty in their teaching, research, and service. I am dedicated to creating a more inclusive community; one where all faculty feel a sense of belonging and know their voices are heard in policies and university decisions. As Chair of Faculty, I will bring my shared governance experience and my passion for supporting faculty to build positive and productive relationships across the university to ensure that ECU is committed to the rich perspectives and diverse experiences of our faculty, staff, and students.

Candidates for Vice Chair of the Faculty

Mark Bowler, Department of Psychology

It is an honor to be nominated for the position of Vice Chair of the Faculty. Beyond my recent Senate-related experiences – chairing EPPC for several years, chairing a Fiscal Sustainability Coordinating Committee subcommittee – I have noted several issues that I believe are paramount to the continued success of the institution. First and foremost, we need to acknowledge faculty burnout and address the emotional exhaustion, cynicism, and depersonalization that is associated with it. It has been growing unchecked for years as a function of increasing demands and decreasing resources, only to be further exacerbated by the pandemic. Second, we need to be developing succession plans and preparing faculty to assume leadership roles. Faculty members should only be promoted because they have the skills associated with management and leadership. Third, as we have made progress in improving the employment of fixed-term faculty, we now need to work to improve the employment conditions of departmental staff. These individuals are critical to their departments and the constant turnover is extremely detrimental. Lastly, as an organization, we need to transform our climate and culture. We need to become more flexible in dealing with changes and more willing to take calculated risks. Currently we are a risk-averse organization that is slow to respond to environmental challenges. Our typical plan for addressing an issue is to mimic what has already been done at another institution.

This approach only guarantees that we will lag behind our competitors rather than gaining any competitive advantage. Thank you for your consideration.

Meghan Millea, Department of Economics

I am grateful for this Vice Chair nomination. At ECU and throughout academia we have recently undergone substantial instructional modifications and research interruptions. We have endured fiscal and workload challenges. The Faculty Senate can present the faculty's most pressing needs to university leadership and provide them with creative solutions. We are key to helping the university rebound, grow, and thrive.

There are several pivotal opportunities for ECU over the next year. The university's new administrative structure can include a broader role for faculty input in decision-making. The new funding model incentivizes us to engage in strategic optimizations while protecting our academic core. Growing revenues can reduce fiscal pressures and will enable us to replace faculty and staff positions, pursue pay increases, and support the work of the faculty. The Senate will be instrumental throughout these transitions.

I would like to be on the Senate's leadership team to represent the interests of the faculty in a constructive and inclusive manner. I have previous experience with faculty governance. I understand the stressors of growing enrollment, the challenges caused by deferred maintenance, and the complexities of university budgets, including tuition revenues, state appropriations, system allocations, and university-wide efficiencies. This next year is a pivotal time to transition from the reactive pressures of the pandemic to a state of optimism and opportunities. I hope we approach challenges collectively with knowledge and creativity, that we encourage and support our faculty, and that the voice of the faculty is well represented in the new administrative organization.

Candidate for Secretary of the Faculty

Melinda Doty, College of Engineering and Technology

I appreciate the nomination of Secretary of the Faculty Senate for the 2022-2023 academic year. I began working at East Carolina University in March 1997, while I was a student enrolled in my bachelor's degree. Throughout my time at ECU, I have worked in the College of Allied Health Sciences, the Division of Continuing Studies, Academic Advising and currently in the College of Engineering & Technology. In August of this year, I will start my 14th year teaching full-time as a fixed-term faculty member in the Department of Technology Systems. I have experienced many leadership changes, growth, and loss in my tenure at ECU.

Since involving myself in University service several years ago, I have had the pleasure to get to know many faculty across campus. I have been a Faculty Senator for the College of Engineering & Technology (CET) for the last four years, served as Chair of the Committee on Committees and Distance Education and Learning Technology Committee and held leadership roles in other Faculty Senate committees. I have also served as Chair of several CET committees including the Scholarship & Awards Committee and Unit Code Committee. Having been exposed to the inner workings of the University, I feel my knowledge and experience will assist me in the role of Secretary of the Faculty, should I be elected.

I would be honored to serve my peers in this capacity. Thank you for your support.
